MILITIA BILL MOVES TOWARD QUICK PASSAGE

Senate Rejects Proposal To Let Guardsmen Resign Before Training.

DRAFT DEBATE LIKELY

Organized Opponents Plan Speeches But Decide No Filibuster.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The senate today agreed unanimously to vote at 4 p. m. on a bill conferring upon President Roosevelt power to mobilize 460,000 members of the national guard and the organized reserves for a year's service with the regular army.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Senate rejection of a proposal to let national guardsmen resign rather than enter active training pushed the militia mobilization bill to the verge of passage today.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, sought a vote by 4 p. m. on the measure, which would authorize the president to call the guard and the officers reserve corps into service for a year. Both advocates and opponents agreed that it would win approval.

The amendment to give guardsmen and reserves 20 days after the bill's passage in which they could turn in their uniforms failed yesterday 47 to 36. It was offered by Senator Danaher (R-Conn.), who contended that many men had enlisted in the belief that they would not be called to duty outside their own states unless congress declared war.

Administration senators, opposing the amendment, argued that the guardsmen had enlisted to serve the nation in any emergency and should not be permitted to quit at a time when they were needed.

Neither side, however, acknowledged the vote as a clear-cut test of sentiment on the main controversy — whether conscription should be ordered to supplement the militia or whether voluntary army enlistments should be sought. Anti-conscription leaders supported Danaher's proposal.

QUITS CABINET

Farley Announces Resignation Effective Aug. 31.

HYDE PARK, N. Y. —(U.P.)— Postmaster General James A. Farley today resigned from the cabinet, effective Aug. 31.

Farley previously had announced his retirement as chairman of the Democratic national committee and will be succeeded on Aug. 17 by Edward J. Flynn of New York.

In accepting Farley's cabinet resignation "with real regret," Mr. Roosevelt gave no indication as to whom he would name as postmaster general.

Councilmen Find Summer Heat Slightly Augmented.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) —Perspiration dripped from the brows of the city councilmen. It was one of the warmest nights of the season and they fidgeted through the slowly dwindling pile of business.

Then someone touched one of the steam radiators. It was going full blast.

JUDGE DIES

Ill. Gilead Native Was Justice of Illinois High Court.

CHARLESTON, Ill.—(AP)—Frank K. Dunn, 85, former justice of the Illinois supreme court, died at his home here last night.

He was born in Mt Gilead O in 1854. He was graduated from Kenyon college and Harvard Law school and was admitted to the Ohio bar before coming here to live in 1878.

Wins '40 Derby After Losing for 3 Years

Jack Thompson, 15, of Lincoln Heights, Wins Classic; Crestline Boy Comes In Second as 5,000 Watch Races.

By GEORGE SATTLER

After three straight years of heart-breaking disappointment, clean-cut, bronzed 15-year-old Jack Thompson, a real American boy who never learned the meaning of the words "give up," received full reward for his courage and stamina yesterday by winning the Soap Box Derby crown of Mansfield.

It was by two full lengths that he piloted his sleek, black "Rollin' Star" across the finish line at the Ashland road course ahead of Herbert Klopfenstein's blue and white streaked charger. He was timed unofficially at 28 miles per hour. Klopfenstein lives in Crestline.

As soon as his speeding car whistled past the finish line and Harry Hartz, famous speedway driver, had given him the checkered flag of victory, the crowd stampeded its way to the highway and circled Thompson and his four-wheeled chariot.

His mother, Mrs. Marie Thompson of Indiana avenue, Lincoln Heights, was among the first to greet him. Unable to keep her pride in her son under control, she threw her arms around him and kissed him as the crowd cheered them both.

Young Thompson's friends, some of whom were drivers he had just defeated, hastened to get near him to clasp his hand or pat him on the back. News cameras flashed, people shouted, and general pandemonium ensued.

Finally the young, smiling champion was whisked away in one of the Soap Box Derby official cars behind the screaming siren of Traffic Policeman Kyler's motorcycle through the mass of 5,000 or more people who jammed the road.

Although Thompson is distinctly not the superstitious kind, he confided that the lucky charm he carried "might" have had something to do with his victory. The charm that he held tightly in his hand throughout the afternoon was the identification tag which his uncle, Loren Wiley, with whom he and his mother now make their home, had carried throughout the first World War.

Bucking a strong easterly wind all afternoon, young Thompson wheeled his home-made car across the white line out in front in four straight heats to fight his way into the final round and earned the right to represent Mansfield in the All-American and International

By CHARLES MARTIN

At the Madison theater last night, the champion, youths who finished second and third in each division and the boys who designed the best racer and had the best upholstered car received their prizes.

C. M. Crafton, Mansfield service-safety director, introduced the winners. Harry Hartz, former winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race and holder of several World records, and Don D. Cram, director of the Mansfield classic, presented the prizes to the youths.

Jack Thompson, the 1940 champion, received the bulk of the awards. Prizes he received for winning and the donors are: An all-expense paid trip to Akron to compete in the All-American and International Derby Sunday, The News-Journal; a wrist watch, Chevrolet Motor corporation; the M. E. Coyle championship sportsman trophy, Chevrolet Motor corporation; traveling bag, Ohio Fuel Gas company; sport suit, Kobackers; baseball glove, Mansfield Athletic Supply; year's membership, Mansfield Y. M. C. A.; binoculars, News-Journal; scrap book, Mohican Chevrolet company, and a baseball bat, Derby officials.

The runner-up, Herbert Klopfenstein, who won the Class B division championship, was awarded the following prizes: a wrist watch, donated by Rogers Jewelry store; traveling bag by the Ohio Fuel and Gas company; fishing tackle box, Mansfield Athletic Supply; year's membership, Mansfield Y.M.C.A.; binoculars News-Journal; sport suit, J. C. Penney company; baseball bat, derby officials, and a scrap book, Mohican Chevrolet company.

For winning the Class A division title, Thompson received these awards: gold medal from the Chevrolet Motor corporation; tie chain and pin from the Mohican Chevrolet company; softball, Y. M. C. A., and a brush kit from The News-Journal.

Klopfenstein, who drove the Friendly House racer to victory in the Class B division was awarded a gold medal by the Chevrolet Motor corporation; tie chain and pin by Mohican Chevrolet company; pen and pencil set, by The News-Journal; a softball, by the Y. M. C. A., and a brush kit by derby officials.

Other awards in the Class A division went to Don Watson, who finished second, and John Sprosty, third. Watson received a silver medal from the Chevrolet Motor

BROMFIELD IN FAVOR OF DRAFT

Conscription of American youth for military training is a democratic process that can "put a backbone back into America and shake the nation's youth out of its lethargy," Louis Bromfield, Mansfield author, told the Kiwanis club at its luncheon meeting today at Westbrook Country club.

"The nation is threatened by a dry rot of democracy rather than by a dictatorship," Bromfield said. "Generations ago we Americans fought for our freedom and to defend our homes from the Indians, and we must do it again today. We are in a blockhouse surrounded by Indians again, but this time they are Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini, and the Japs.

"Conscription has been defined by pacifists as non-democratic,

PEACE PRAYERS

Roosevelt Sets Day But Reminds of Defense Preparation.

HYDE PARK, N. Y. —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt today called on Americans to unite on September 8 in prayer for world peace, but reminded that the government is rushing defenses to protect America's heritage of freedom.

By proclamation, Mr. Roosevelt fixed September 8 as a day of prayer for an enduring peace both at home and abroad, and for strength to make Americans firm in the defense of their heritage.

Derby Run Without a Hitch For 4th Consecutive Year

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Practice, says an old adage, makes perfect, and that must be the reason why the annual Mansfield Soap-box Derby was run off yesterday without a hitch for the fourth consecutive year.

There were thousands of people out at the new Derby course on U. S. route 42 yesterday afternoon, and thousands of cars jammed the highways leading to the scene of Mansfield's greatest amateur racing event.

When all those people had cleared away and the last car had pulled from the parking grounds and barricades were removed from the road, Mansfield police, sheriff's deputies and state highway patrolmen had hung up another record for clearing traffic without a mishap.

This safety record is something of which officers and derby officials are especially proud, and they have reason to boast of their accomplishments. Yesterday's crowd was one of the largest in history and the manner in which the officers handled the vast throng was near perfection.

Traffic moved swiftly and smoothly over the main artery leading into Mansfield, and in an incredibly short time the clogged highway had been cleared without a single mishap.

One of the persons who didn't mind the heat while "covering" the speed classic was Paul Gimbel, pilot for the Harrington Air service, who circled the derby course for nearly half an hour while a News-Journal photographer snapped pictures from the air.

Hurricane Reached 90-Mile Gale Over Texas.

HOUSTON, Tex.—(U.P.)—A tropical hurricane which had reached a 90-mile-an-hour fury was dissipating itself in rain and gales over southeast Texas today.

Port Arthur, Tex., hardest-hit town in the hurricane's path, was cleaning up debris today. Damage was estimated at $500,000 and 24 persons were injured, none seriously, by flying debris yesterday.

More than 1,000 persons had been evacuated from coastal areas and brought into Porth Arthur by the Red Cross. Most of them were expected to return home today.

Outside of Port Arthur, it was believed that damage was more than $1,000,000. Two deaths were reported in Louisiana.

City Officials Ask Bids to Lease 500 Parking Meters

Following closely on the heels of council's approval of parking meters on a nine-month trial basis, city officials today called for bids on leasing 500 of the machines with option of purchase.

The board of control threw the bidding wide open by asking for quotations on both five-cent and penny machines and combination type meters for one and two-hour parking.

Srevice-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said sealed proposals will be accepted at the office of the board of control at City Hall until noon, Monday, Aug. 26.

Specifications set up by the board require each bidder to provide detailed information concerning the method of operation and installation and exhibit a sample meter of the type to be furnished.

It also requires the parking meter firms to deposit with the city a certified check for $500 with their bids.

Rental price per month for a period of nine months, and the option price should the city decide to purchase the machines at the expiration of the leasing period.

Bidders are asked to state the period of time they will service the machines during the rental period and are asked to state the

Dive Bombing Tactics Used In New Raids

Military Objectives Reported Smashed; Nine Nazi Planes Brought Down By Island Defenders; Italian Base In Africa Attacked.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—German bombing planes were reported off the southeast coast of England again this afternoon, indicating a resumption of earlier attacks on shipping in the English channel.

(By International News Service)

Royal Air Force planes—including for the first time England's own "Stuka" divebombers—waged bitter battles over England, the channel, Germany and Norway today.

The admiralty announced that at least nine Nazi warplanes had been shot down by defending patrol planes and anti-aircraft guns. Meanwhile, the official communique said, planes of the fleet air arm adopted Nazi tactics in raids on a Norwegian oil depot.

Descending on their targets in whistling dives, the bombers were said to have blown up the largest tank at Dolvik, five miles south of Bergen. A second tank was badly damaged and the Dolvik jetty was left in flames.

British air might also struck at the Italian offensive in Africa. The R. A. F. lashed out at Barida, chief jumping off place for Italy's threat to the lifeline of the British empire—the key ports of Alexandria, Cairo and the Suez canal.

Fighting to check the Fascist advance which already controls one port on the Gulf of Aden, British planes bombed the Bardia harbor and a submarine base at Massawa.

In the battle over Britain authorities counted up their losses due to German raids and reported that damages were not serious.

They said the most seriously injured persons were a group of women walking on a country road when a Nazi raider dropped a load of bombs nearby.

British chemists, meanwhile, examined a white powder found in the streets of one English town after a German raider had passed overhead, apparently suspecting it might yield a clue to a new German weapon.

Analysis demonstrated, however, that the powder was a chemical compound which eats through metal bands holding bundles of German propaganda leaflets, permitting the leaflets to scatter and float to earth when dropped from an airplane.

Evidence that British raids on German objectives are taking effect was seen in repeated blasts of Nazi anti-aircraft fire against British planes along the northern French coast.

Officials in London said they believed evacuation of civilians from the Ruhr section of the Reich is "highly likely" as a result of repeated, hard-hitting British raids.

OFFER: India Promised Free Partnership In Commonwealth

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—India was promised "free and equal partnership" in the British commonwealth, today as Britain sought to unify the greatest possession of her empire for an amassing of manpower and wealth against Germany and Italy, the latter now driving for an outlet into the Indian ocean.

The pledge, announced by L. S. Amery, British secretary of state for India, in the house of commons, was authoritatively interpreted as offering an "even broader" status than that of dominion, which is enjoyed by Canada, Australia and South Africa. Post-war dominion status for India was proposed by the government last October.

A similar statement was made simultaneously by Lord Linlithgow, viceroy, in India.

Fullest "sympathy" was expressed for Indian insistence that the new constitution should be framed by Indians and ready "assent" was announced to organization, after the war, of a body representing the principal elements in Indian national life to devise a new constitution.

An invitation to Indian leaders to join the governor general's executive council and establishment of a war advisory council which would contain representatives of the Indian states also was announced.

The government statement frankly declared its hope that satisfaction of Indian nationalist aspirations would lead to a greater contribution of Indian wealth and manpower to Britain's war effort.

With unstinted Indian aid, Britain might be in position to assemble overwhelming manpower to smother Italian expansion in the Mediterranean and Red sea areas, and at the same time offer a check to a threatening Japan in the other direction.

By her advances through British Somaliland, Italy is seeking to reach a vantage point looking toward this eastern and middle eastern empire, much of which is dominated by Moslems.

EMPIRE: Italian Occupation Of Zeilah Called First Step

BULLETIN

ROME—(INS)—A heavy naval engagement has been raging for the last three days in the Mediterranean between Formentera in the Balearic islands and Algiers, the newspaper Tribuna reported from Valencia, Spain, today. Heavy cannonading has been heard at dawn for three days past, the report said.

(By International News Service)

ROME—Italian occupation of Zeilah, strategically important British Somaliland port, was officially described today as the first step in the extension of the Fascist African empire, intended to greatly improve the lot of the native population.

Citing the fact that the then British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden in 1935 offered Zeilah to Italy as a corridor to the Gulf of Aden in exchange for concessions in Italian Somaliland, an official statement broadly hinted that when offered, Zeilah was worthless.

Under Fascist rule, British, French and Italian Somaliland are to be brought together for the wellbeing of the native populations, the statement said. It was also admitted that control of the Somalilands would give Italy a magnificent strategic position on the Gulf of Aden.

The official statement said:

"The action against Zeilah was the opening chapter of the incorporation of British Somaliland into Italian Africa. It tends to solve by force of arms the problem of the unity of the three Somalilands whose division is one of the greatest bars to the material and moral wellbeing of the native populations."

SAY EUROPEANS HAVE FORGOTTEN ALL ABOUT PLAY

Clipper Stewards Tell of Grim Anxiety of Passengers For First Glimpse of U. S.

By JANE COCHRAN
(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK — Europeans have forgotten how to play

The nerve-wracking ordeals they've faced and witnessed have killed all desire for fun—so say the stewards aboard Pan-American Clippers who share the woes of scores of refugees whose sole desire is to put as many miles as possible between themselves and warring Europe

In three months of ferrying sad-eyed fugitives across the Atlantic there has not been a single call for the "game box"—the selection of playing cards and games—aboard the clipper, Steward Joseph Ravoli said today

Instead, for the hours of flight from Lisbon, those lucky enough to escape war's horrors peer at the horizon, waiting and watching for the first glimpse of America.

And woe to the steward if the flying boat is even 15 minutes late. For the refugees, who have spent weeks in escaping from their homelands and perhaps months waiting in Lisbon for the clipper cannot bear the thought of additional minutes in the air and personally and verbally place the blame on the shoulders of the long-suffering steward.

East-bound passengers, too, are a glum lot, the stewards report—too full of worries to do much more than look the way they feel about leaving the peace and quiet of the United States. They're often returning to homelands now under another flag, uncertain as to which side they are on, or to countries faced with daily bombardment threats

But Pan American's greatest worry is not its passengers but its stewards—they've heard so many tales of misery from passengers and would-be passengers unable to get booking in Lisbon that they leave the ships looking as sad and forlorn as the saddest refugee they left behind.

In the days before the war it was the flight officers who answered the lengthy queries of the passengers about flight details, while the stewards attended only to their entertainment wants. Now the passengers desire only sympathy and a good listener and their one question is "How soon will we reach America?"

The ordeals they've faced have left them more or less insensible to amusements and they huddle in groups to compare experiences. Some have spent two weeks reaching Lisbon, a journey that would nominally take them about two days.

Indians Open 6-Game Series With St. Louis

Tribe Looks for Boudreau's Bat to Help Bust Browns' Jinx; Feller Hurls.

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Gentlemanly Lou Boudreau speaks softly—but not his bat.

On his loud bat-talk the Cleveland Indians depended heavily today as they met the St. Louis Browns in a double-header opening a six-game series.

Manager Oscar Vitt hoped to chase the St. Louis jinx at the outset and sent Bob Feller, winner of 18, and Joe Dobson to the mound. The lowly Browns have knocked the three top American league clubs out of the rapidly changing lead Elden Auker and Vernon Kennedy were the Browns' pitching choices

A victory in both games would put Cleveland in first place by a half game. The Detroit Tigers, now leading by that margin, are idle today

* * *

Boudreau's performance yesterday gave baseball a new Larrupin' Lou. His two homers—the eighth and ninth—and a timely single drove in six runs to lead Cleveland to a 9 to 3 victory over the Chicago White Sox for three out of their four games.

This was the shortstop's way of celebrating the first anniversary of joining the Tribe He and Ray Mack, second baseman were called up from Buffalo just a year ago Mack, his left side injured, was on on the bench yesterday

Lou's first homer came at the start of the fourth He connected again in the seventh, scoring Al Smith and Ben Chapman ahead of him, and his single drove in the first two runs of the four-run ninth inning. Boosting his average to .319, he now leads the Indians' batting.

Smith started on the mound for Cleveland, but retired in the seventh after yielding all 10 of Chicago's safe blows. Harry Eisenstat saved the game for him, allowing no hits Both pitchers had a perfect day at bat, Smith getting two hits and Eisenstat one in as many trips to the plate

Outstanding Pitchers Will Face Herman Club

MANSFIELD softball fans will have an opportunity Sunday of seeing two of the greatest colored pitchers in the state in action.

* * *

The two moundsmen will face the undefeated Sons of Herman in a benefit doubleheader at Liberty park Proceeds of the game will be turned over to John Stash, former Mansfield baseball star, who is in ill health.

Herb Marshall and Ray Redman are the hurlers, and they will toe the rubber for the powerful Columbus Speedway A C. colored team. Both sport impressive records and the Hermans are expected to face one of the toughest tests of the year

Redman gained fame throughout Ohio last year for pitching a no-run, no-hit game against a team in an exhibition game at Marion. Ray walked the first three men to face him He then called in the infield and outfield and retired the side in order for seven innings.

Jimmy Fullager is Manager Frank Beeber's choice to face Redman in the opening contest at 2 p m The Hermans will be after their 18th straight triumph.

* * *

Marshall, who will see service in the nightcap, may not be as sensational as Redman, but he is a dependable twirler. He has marked up two no-hit, no-run victories this season.

The Capital city combine invades Mansfield with a record of 31 wins against four losses.

Pace, Cubs Hurler, Heaves No-Hitter Against Yankees

A Sparkling no-hitter by Pace gave the Cubs a 3 to 1 victory over the Yankees yesterday in a Friendly House Knot Hole loop contest at the Fairground.

Throughout the five frames, Pace struck out 12 of the bewildered Yankees, for an average of nearly three strike-outs per inning. This was the outstanding pitching accomplishment registered by any pitcher in the loop this season.

The Cubs scored once in the first inning once in the second, and once in the fourth for their three runs The Yankees' one run came in the fifth frame as a result of a series of errors and a walk

In the other Knot hole loop contest staged yesterday at the Fairground, the Red Sox nosed out the Braves, 3 to 2 Bauer was on the mound for the Sox and Hahn for the Braves

Walters Tries To Halt Reds' Worst Slump

Brooklyn Threatens to Make Redlegs Hustle.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The trouble with the Cincinnati Reds is that they don't seem to realize that they (the said Dodgers) went down for the count of ten two weeks ago

* * *

The situation isn't desperate yet but it is a fact that the Dodgers have shaved four games off the nine-game lead once held in the National league by the Cincinnati Reds, and they have done it since three straight lickings by the Reds at Ebbetts field.

* * *

Today you see the Reds in the throes of their worst slump of the season and the Dodgers again threatening to make it a knock-down-drag-out garden party.

Bill Lee of Gabby Hartnett's bumptious Chicago Cubs added the latest defeat for the Reds with his 5-3 victory in yesterday's ten-inning engagement. Paul Derringer was the victim, mainly of a series of soft pitches in the tenth, when the Cubs scored three runs.

* * *

Bucky Walters seeks to repair some of the damage today, or at least to protect the five-game margin over the Dodgers. Lefty Larry French is the Chicago pitcher Bucky is trying for the fourth time for his 16th win of the year.

* * *

Today's game starts an hour early and will be called, regardless of the score, at 5 p m the hour of the funeral of Willard Hershberger in Visalia, Calif Before the game a minute of silence is to be observed and the flag half-masted for the little catcher who killed himself in Boston Saturday.

Moose Club Wallops Rivals to Register 13th Straight Win

DISPLAYING the batting power of real champions, the Moose club softball combination chalked up its 13th straight victory in a Y. M. C. A. Commercial league game yesterday by downing the Service Taxis 18 to 3 at North Lake park.

Brown was on the mound for the winners, holding the Taxis to five lonely hits, while the Moosemen proceeded to tag Gilda for a 12-hit total. Each of the opposing pitchers struck out six men but the nine bases on balls off Gilda's arm gave Brown a decided edge in the box.

The Moose club tallied five runs in the opening frame, five in the second, four in the third, none in the fourth, two in the fifth, one in the sixth, and one in the seventh for its 18-run total.

Kunz, Moose catcher, was the fair-haired boy in the batter's box, getting a home run and a single out of four trips to the platter Wilkin, Taxi rightfielder, was top man for the losers, banging out a single and a double out of three trips.

In another league game last night, the Nick's Place club overwhelmed the Isalys 8 to 4 Warren Gross toed the rubber for the winners, while Christman was the Isaly tosser.

Blayney and Hostetter of the Nick's led the batters by getting a circuit smash apiece. Hostetter also slammed out a double.

In the only other league game last night the Barnes Challengers won over the Town Taverns by a forfeit The Taverns reported for the game with an insufficient number of men on the field.

Braves Beaten Again

Fremont Marks Up 6-3 Win; Club Plays Two Games at Fair Park Today.

A STINGING 6 to 3 defeat was pasted on the Mansfield Braves at Fremont last night.

With Rex Benton failing to hold up, the Braves fell behind in the early innings as they battled to hold third place in the Ohio State league championship race.

The Braves return to the Fairground today to meet the Green Sox in a doubleheader. Bob Arnold will probably get the call to work in the opener at 7 p. m.

Fremont pushed over single runs in the first, second and third innings to grab a lead it never relinquished Benton was relieved by George Laurila in the fifth and the Green Sox tallied three runs against him

Meanwhile, the Braves were held scoreless by Stauther until the eighth when the club collected its three runs. In all, Mansfield secured six hits, while Fremont piled up 11 bingles. It was Mansfield's second straight setback.

Manager Dewey Stover led the Braves at the plate last night with a double and single. He was the only player to secure two hits. Erne cracked out a triple and two singles to lead the Green Sox.

The Tribe plays at Tiffin Friday night and returns for a single contest at the Fair park against Tiffin at 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The greatest horse this country ever produced—with the possible exception of Man O' War, Exterminator, Seabiscuit, Gallant Fox, Sysonby, Twenty Grand, Discovery, Sun Beau, Cavalcade, Reigh Count, Hindoo, Omaha, War Admiral, and some 5,000 others—will take another shot at the 1940 three-year-old championship on Saturday.

* * *

I speak of course of that Biblically named bran-burner, Bimelech, who started playing hell with us experts at Louisville in early May, and hasn't stopped yet. By blowing the derby, then the Withers, and then the Arlington classic, he made our faces so red that Boy Scouts mistook us for Indians and stopped us to ask how to trap muskrats.

* * *

Bimelech, being a well-bred horse, will try to apologize for his earlier mistakes by winning the American derby at Chicago's Washington park this week-end He will carry 126 pounds over the mile and one-quarter route, and most of them will be strange pounds to him. Because 105 or so of the poundage will belong to Basil James, the jockey chosen by Colonel E. R. Bradley to replace Freddie Smith on Bimelech's back.

Now I wonder how he's going to react to this change in jockeys? When Washington park's paddock judge calls "Riders up!" on Saturday, and James climbs aboard, it will be the first time since Bimelech felt a saddle on his back that any other boy but Smith has taken charge of him. Will he rebel against a strange voice talking to him, strange hands handling his proud head and tender mouth? Will he, somewhere down in his thoroughbred heart, feel that he and Freddie came up together, and that he and Freddie should go down together, if that be the decision of the racing fates?

The chances are that he won't Thoroughbred horses aren't exactly Phi Beta Kappas, and besides, jockeys look so much alike, what with their walnut-cameo faces, that even their parents must have trouble pickin them out by means other than their different silks. The truth of the matter is, Bimelech probably will enjoy the ride by Basil James

* * *

According to men who profess to know about such things James is one of the cutest things on horseback since Paul Revere, and that Freddie Smith cuts one of the sorriest figures since the Duke of Windsor spent Saturday afternoons falling off.

* * *

There are some critics of horseflesh who blame Smith, not Bimelech, for the Bradley colt's defeat, and who say that with a star rider from the first Bimelech would have lived up to all of the rave notices he got prior to post time at the derby in dear old Kentucky.

Riggs May Stay Out of Two Meets to Polish Up Strokes

League president Paul Shank allowed a protest of Findlay manager Grover Hartley on a ground-rule double by pitcher Griffore in the last half of the ninth. Shank ruled the hit a triple and ordered the game replayed from that point, Aug. 19 at Findlay.

Shanks' ruling, however, came after the spectators went home believing that Lima won the game 8 to 5 in 11 innings selves, and right now must be considered as a possible first division finisher.

* * *

Early in the season the Pirates sank practically out of sight by losing 16 out of 18 games. But now they have won seven straight and 16 out of their last 20.

They nosed out the Cardinals 10-9 in the first game yesterday although they were outhit 18-9. In the nightcap the bold Buccos made a dozen runs on 13 hits to win 12-6. Pitcher Max Butcher batted in four of the tallies himself.

The Cincinnati Reds gave more ground as they dropped a 5-3 tenninning battle to the Chicago Cubs who thus broke Paul Derringer's winning string at seven games.

The Brooklyn Dodgers made the most of this opportunity by overwhelming the New York Giants 8-4 in a night game that was intended to honor Mel Ott and drew a crowd of 53,997 to the Polo Grounds.

The Boston Bees continued to plague the poor Phillies, taking a night game 6-3 with Eddie Miller and Carvell Rowell each hitting homers with a mate aboard.

* * *

The American league race remained unchanged. The pace-setting Detroit Tigers outlasted the St. Louis Browns to win 7-5; the Cleveland Indians crushed the Chicago White Sox 9-3 with Lou Boudreau hitting two home runs and a single, batting in six scores; and New York's tottering Yankees divided a double-header at Boston, but it took a three-run rally in the ninth inning of the nightcap to end their five-game losing streak.

* * *

The Red Sox won the opener 10-7 with a 16-hit offensive concentrated in the middle innings but in the second game were slowed down to eight hits by Lefty Marius Russo In the final frame Tom Henrich batted across two Yankee runs with a triple and then scored on a single.

Buck Newsom Chides Tribe

Tells Indians He'll Be Hurling Against 'Em.

ST. LOUIS — (U.P.) - The Cleveland Indians arrived here last night to find a one-man reception committee Louis (Buck) Newsom of the Detroit Tigers awaiting them.

* * *

Big Buck, waiting for a train to Chicago, stood in a doorway with his right thumb held high for all to see. It was swollen and discolored. Buck was grining.

* * *

"Hyah, bo-bo," Buck greeted the Indians. "Ain't she a beauty?" He eyed the thumb. The Indians filed by, refusing to look at the thumb

"I'll be pitching against you bo-bos in Cleveland next week," Buck told the tribesmen, grinning "Even if I got only two days rest I'm a three-fingered pitcher now but that's good enough.

* * *

Manager Oscar Vitt of the Indians said at Chicago yesterday that he wouldn't permit Newsom to use tape on his thumb when he pitched against the Indians. Buck was asked if he would use tape.

* * *

"Say, I used a little tape for three innings when I came back against the Athletics. Haven't used it since Nobody asked Vitt if I could use any tape. What's he popping off about?"

Millers Strengthen Hold on Second

(By Associated Press)

The second place position of Minneapolis in the American association pennant race was more secure today—as secure as a three-game margin could make it.

* * *

On the verge of a fall to third place—after once enjoying better than a 10-game advantage over the various third place holders—the Millers trounced Kansas City 12 to 2 last night as the hotly pursuing Columbus Red Birds lost a thriller to Toledo, 8 to 7.

* * *

Indianapolis came back with a three-run flurry in the seventh inning to defeat Louisville, 4 to 2. In the other game St Paul could not overcome an early Milwaukee lead dispite 15 hits and dropped a 6 to 5 decision.

Mike Jacobs May Purchase Dodgers

NEW YORK — (AP)—Mike Jacobs, boxing promoter, said today a meeting would be held Friday to consider the purchase of the Brooklyn Dodgers by a syndicate headed by himself

Jacobs said the Brooklyn Trust company, which holds 50 per cent of the stock in trust for heirs of the late Charles Ebbets, had offered him controlling interest in the baseball club but that his syndicate wants 100 per cent or nothing.

If the bank persuades the Edward J McKeever heirs to dispose of their share, Jacobs said negotiations looking to the sale would be resumed

OKLAHOMA OIL TURNS OFF SO FARM REVIVED

State Placed Among First In Nation for Aid by Federal Projects.

OKLAHOMA CITY (U.P.)—The topsoil of Oklahoma farmlands once again is attracting major interest in this state where for 25 years the magic power of oil has dominated the economic stage.

This year, as never before in Oklahoma history, federal, state and independent agencies are concentrating on the improvement of agriculture.

The Federal government, pouring in millions of dollars for its crop control, loan and farm rehabilitation policies, now has added an intensive soil conservation program to its campaign for betterment of farm conditions.

Last autumn the WPA and the U. S. Soil Conservation Service inaugurated their joint soil conservation program in Oklahoma, which today leads the country in the number of soil conservation districts. It was considered a logical starting place.

In 1889, nearly 100,000 homeseekers rushed across the Oklahoma borders to stake out farms on the prairie soils of a new territory. The land was rich, unbroken by plow.

Soil Worn Out.

A few years ago geographers estimated that Oklahoma farmlands were in a worse condition than those of neighboring—and older states. Intensive cultivation and lack of protective care for the soil was the cause, they said.

Recently, Dr. W. C. Loudermilk, assistant chief of the soil conservation service, estimated that 13,000,000 of Oklahoma's 16,000,000 acres of cultivated land had suffered excessive damage from erosion.

The elements were partly responsible, it was pointed out. Oklahoma, a state of extreme climatic conditions, is alternately a victim of drouth, heavy winds that scoop up the soil, and torrential rains.

More than 2,000,000 acres are considered damaged beyond restoration within the next few generations. More than 83,725 farms—estimating the average farm at 160 acres—have been ruined for productive purposes.

HOT SPELLS HIKE CONSUMPTION OF WATER BUT SUPPLY'S THERE

Mansfield residents use almost two-thirds of a million gallons of water above the city's regular daily consumption during these hot days, records in the service-safety director's office show.

For the first time in a number of years there has been no shortage of city water during a prolonged heat wave and a drought, and city reservoirs have been maintained at 18 feet at all times, according to Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton.

Crafton said this was made possible by connecting the transformers to Maxwell pumping station near Alta, and keeping up the level of the water in the reservoirs.

Average daily consumption during the summer is around three million gallons, and in previous years restrictions have been imposed on sprinkling during long hot, dry spells.

"The city is in the business of selling water," Crafton said, "and the best time to sell it is in dry weather. We decided to meet the demand."

During the two weeks of the heat wave the daily consumption was 3,654,702 gallons, he said.

"It is a sad commentary on man's stewardship of the earth," observed the soil expert.

Oil Production Drops.

The decline of oil production is playing an important part in the rejuvenation of agriculture in this state, many persons believe.

Farmers, merchants and bankers are looking forward to the day when the last of the state's oil fields will have been tapped. The fabulous boom days of the 1920s already are a part of the past.

"Farmers are getting down to farming instead of wishing for oil wells on their land," says Oliver Wilham, vice-dean of agriculture at Oklahoma A. & M. college.

Government regulation also is requiring better farm management, while farmers who accumulated capital through outside means and were able to farm below cost, are disappearing.

State and independent agencies are promoting increased farm efficiency through the development of new crop-raising and stock-growing methods. Foremost in this work have been the various farm organization and the Oklahoma Chemurgis Council, which has been investigating possibilities of new uses for farm products.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

NEED VOTING BOOTH WORKERS

Election Board Members to Name Then If Committee Members Don't.

Beginning early to set up its machinery for the November presidential election, the Richland county election board had run into trouble today in naming workers for the voting booths.

A. F. Porter, clerk, said central committeemen in more than 60 precincts in the city and county have failed to submit recommendations for appointments to the precinct boards although requests for recommendations have been made repeatedly.

"Unless we hear from them soon, the board will name the election booth workers without waiting for committeemen to suggest names," Porter said.

The board must appoint 546 workers for the 91 precincts in the city and county, six for each precinct. The Democratic and Republican central committeemen in each precinct can nominate candidates for the jobs. Their suggestions are usually followed by the election board.

FUN DAMPENED

STOCKHOLM—(INS)—Amusements are not as popular in Stockholm today as they were before the war. During the first three months of this year a total sum of 4,400,000 kroner was paid out for tickets to theaters, concerts, movies, circus, lectures, the opera, etc., as compared to 5,130,000 kroner one year ago.

THEATERS

Brent and Bruce Starred.

George Brent, a brilliant young district attorney in "The Man Who Talked Too Much," finds that a record of 100 per cent convictions doesn't always mean that justice prevails. There is a gripping story in this film play, with Virginia Bruce, Brenda Marshall, Richard Barthelmess and William Lundigan assisting Brent. The climax is a race to the governor for a pardon a few hours before an execution. It's at the Ohio through Friday.

* * *

One of Cantor's Best.

Eddie Cantor, in one of his best pictures, "Forty Little Mothers," introduces a new star, Baby Quintanilla, who holds the center of interest. It's a comedy of a girls school and a lone male professor—and a baby. "South To Karanga," the second feature at the Madison, is the story of an exciting train ride through the African veldt and jungle. Charles Bickford and Luli Deste head the cast.

* * *

Bromfield Story.

Starting today and running through Saturday the Ritz will present the film version of the Louis Bromfield story "It All Came True" in which Ann Sheridan, Jeffrey Lynn and Humphrey Bogart are featured. It's a story of present day New York, with an interesting love story. Gene Autry in "Carolina Moon" is the latest of the popular singing cowboy's films to hit the screen and is offered on the same program.

* * *

"Lone Wolf Strikes."

A famous pearl necklace is stolen at a party and Michael Lanyard, famous detective who works alone, is called into the case, in "The Lone Wolf Strikes," at the Park. Warren William again plays Lanyard. Also shown at the Park is "Overland Stage Raiders," featuring John Wayne, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune. The three saddle adventurers solve a series of stage coach robberies.

* * *

Raymond Returns.

Gene Raymond, who retired from the screen several years ago to write songs for his singing wife, Jeannette MacDonald, is back in films again and his first picture is "Cross Country Romance" with Wendy Barrie. Gene has darkened his hair and has a new personality. The picture will be shown at the Majestic tomorrow and Saturday.

The second feature will be "Billy The Kid Outlawed," with Bob Steele playing The Kid.

A LOAN OF $400 saved a Life.....

About a year ago my daughter contracted lung trouble as a result of over-study. The doctor recommended that we send her West. But where was I to get the money? Finally, I called at The City Loan, told them my problem, and my worries were over. Within a few days the money was mine and my daughter was on her way. After eight months she returned, the picture of health. My monthly loan payments are little enough to pay in return for a healthy daughter and a balanced budget. My thanks to The City Loan.

3 Weeks On Vendol Relieved Local Nurseryman Much Pain

Had Taken Everything Recommended To Him for Troubles in Stomach Due to Constipation. Says Nothing Ever Gave as Much Relief as Vendol.

MR. J. C. MARSHALL

Mr. J. C. Marshall, the well known Nurseryman and Landscape Gardener of 66 Heineman Blvd., Mansfield says: "I had been suffering for years from constipation which caused untold agonies in my stomach and had taken everything recommended to me for my trouble but it's a positive fact that about three weeks ago I started taking Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets and I've gotton more relief than from anything else I ever tried. This medicine is truly great.

"I read what people said about Vendol so got a bottle. It helped me so I got more and today I'm feeling fine. It relieved my constipation thoroughly so now I eat anything I want but never suffer from sour stomach, acid risings or gas. I used to feel bloated, had shortness of breath and "heartburn" but no more.

"I also used to feel dizzy at times, spots danced before my eyes, had a bad taste in my mouth and a coated tongue but when Vendol relieved the constipation all these troubles were also relieved. I'm glad to endorse Vendol and feel sure it will help anyone suffering the same as I did."

In many cases of indigestion, sour stomach, dizziness, sluggish, "all in" feeling, pains in the back and limbs, the cause can be traced to constipation or need of a kidney diuretic. Vendol, an extract of finest roots and herbs with alkalines added for extra benefits, gives gratifying relief from constipation in an easy, pleasant way. Give it a chance to help you.

Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists here and is especially recommended by Central Drug store, corner Main & 4th Streets.

We Made a Mistake
We purchased the entire trade-in and repossessed stock of a closed eastern store. We do not have room for all of it and do not wish to rent a warehouse. We are offering part of it at a ridiculous low price to make room. For instance, Bridge and Jr. Lamps for 97c, console radios $5.95, 2 and 3-pc. living room suites, $14.50 to $29.50, 8 and 9-pc. dining suites $8.95 to $19.50, heavy Wilton rugs $29.50. These prices are good only as long as it takes us to make room.

PAM— "She Risked Her Life!" — By A. W. Brewerton

SO IT WAS THAT CARTER WOMAN, LIL, THE ONE WHO CAME TO ME IN TROUBLE ONE TIME - SO SHE WAS THE ONE WHO TRICKED YOU, HEY?
SHE PUT UP A FINE PERFORMANCE! I REALLY THOUGHT SHE WAS ILL, COLONEL. BUT LATER I WAS VERY GLAD IT WAS SHE. IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR HER RISKING HER LIFE, YOU'D NEVER HAVE FOUND ME, HARDESTY WOULD HAVE GOTTEN HIS LEASE, AND THE WIDOW LOST HER PROPERTY!
8-8
I THINK LIL IS ANXIOUS TO GO STRAIGHT. SHE CERTAINLY WAS DEEPLY GRATEFUL FOR WHAT YOU DID FOR HER. SHE SHOWED THAT, DIDN'T SHE?
SHE TRULY DID! I WENT TO THE JAIL AND SAW HER, THANKED HER!
SHORTLY AFTER THAT PAM HAD A CALL FROM HER PAL CLARE!
OH, YOU'LL GET THE CAR TONIGHT, COME BY FOR ME? FINE, CLARE!
DAVID HAD LEFT HIS CAR FOR THE GIRLS TO USE, FIRST PLACING IT IN THE SHOP FOR A PRECAUTIONARY CHECK OVER!
BUT THAT ISN'T ALL! GOT SOMETHING EXCITING TO TELL YOU - ASK YOU ABOUT. NO, CAN'T TELL YOU NOW - WAIT'LL I SEE YOU. 'BYE.
OF COURSE THAT AROUSED PAM'S CURIOSITY! WAS IT A NEW MAN, SHE WONDERED?!

THE NEBBS— A Perfect Setting — By Sol Hess

HERE WE HAVE THE NEBBS AT THE BEAUTIFUL BALSAMS- WHAT A TRANSFORMATION AFTER A NIGHT IN A HOT TOURIST'S CABIN.....
8-8
ISN'T THIS A WONDERFUL PLACE? AND THE FOOD IS DELICIOUS
BUT WE WON'T STAY LONG AT 20 BUCKS A DAY- WE'LL JUST ACT LIKE WE STOPPED HERE ON OUR WAY SOME-PLACE ELSE
YOU DIDN'T HAVE TO PAY 20 DOLLARS A DAY! YOU'RE IN THE HOTEL BUSINESS- YOU KNOW YOU ALWAYS START AT THE TOP PRICE
THIS ROOM IS FURNISHED WITH SUCH GOOD TASTE AND THE VIEW FROM HERE IS DIVINE
FOR 20 BUCKS A DAY THE HARDWARE SHOULD BE PLATINUM AND THE HOTEL SHOULD BE IN THE GARDEN OF EDEN

BRICK BRADFORD— Seeks the Diamond Doll. — By William Ritt and Clarence Gray

AS BRICK AND HIS PARTY RETURN TO THE RANCH WE FIND THE NEWLY ARRIVED STRANGERS IN A HUDDLE IN THEIR ROOMS AT THE RANCH HOUSE
NOW, BOYS, YOU KNOW THE PLAN- WE FIND THOSE DIAMONDS AND GET AWAY BEFORE ANYONE SUSPECTS!
RIGHT!
'N' LET'S MAKE IT SNAPPY- I'M SICK OF THESE SO-CALLED WIDE OPEN SPACES!
8-8
HEY, BOSS, THOSE GUYS WE PASSED ON THE TRAIL ARE COMING UP TO THE HOUSE!
SAY! THE BIG ONE! IT'S BRADFORD! BRICK BRADFORD!
BRADFORD? HERE? YOU'RE CRAZY!

STOCK MARKET TRADERS TAKE NEUTRAL PATHS

Buyers and Sellers Await Outcome of Next Big European Battle.

NEW YORK—Both buyers and sellers again hugged neutral territory in today's stock market and few issues were able to develop a definite trend.

Brokers still maintained that fears for the outcome of a big Anglo-German clash formed the greatest speculative handicap. Business items, more favorable than otherwise, apparently were uninspiring marketwise.

Bonds and commodities held to a narrow range.

Given a feeble boost occasionally were such stocks as General Motors, Chrysler, Republic Steel, Standard Oil of N. J., American Can, Glenn Martin, Sperry, Sears Roebuck, and Du Pont

Wall Street analysts probing the compromise excess profits tax measure approved by the house ways and means subcommittee, expressed the opinion that, if the bill were adopted, industries which might have to pay heavier than others would include steel and shipbuilding.

In the search for market clues boardrooms studied comments of Commerce Secretary Hopkins which indicated the business upswing, while continuing in July, was "moderate" compared with the jump in June.

Encouragement was derived from the Dun & Bradstreet summary disclosing the country's bank clearings for the week ended yesterday topped the corresponding 1939 period by 16.7 per cent.

NO PROMISES HE CAN'T KEEP

This Presidential Candidate Doesn't Fool Himself.

SEATTLE—(AP)—John W. Aiken, Chelsea, Mass., running for president on the Socialist Labor porty ticket, refuses to make campaign promises.

Asked why he doesn't, Aiken said:

"That's simple. I know I haven't a chance to be elected."

WESTINGHOUSE MAPS CAMPAIGN

Distributors, Convening In Mansfield, Told of Plans For Sales Drive.

Plans for an aggressive fall selling campaign, backed by the largest year-end advertising program in the history of the Westinghouse merchandising division, were outlined before the company's distributors in a special convention in Mansfield today.

The convention will be followed by a series of 200 "Merchandise Markets" in key cities throughout the country. New product information and full details on the advertising and promotional phases of the fall selling program will be given to Westinghouse dealers at these meetings, to be conducted during the week of Aug. 19.

In opening the meeting Frank R. Kohnstamm, sales manager of the Westinghouse merchandising division, predicted that the outlook for fall appliance business was very bright because of continued good business.

"This is particularly true of the small appliance and laundry equipment business," said Kohnstamm. "We are counting on one of the best fall volumes in out history on these two lines. To enable our distributors and dealers to make the most of the opportunities presented, we are launching a complete sales plan built around new products, a plan to build dealer floor traffic and an increased advertising appropriation."

Roger H. Bolin, advertising manager, announced that the fall selling program will be supported by an expanded advertising program. Newspaper advertising schedules are to be increased considerably, he said.

Several new lines of products were shown to the distributors at today's convention, by means of demonstrations and skits. These included:

A new vacuum cleaner, known as the "Captain," and featuring specially designed "Easy-Empty" tabs which make the usually-unpleasant task of emptying dirt from a vacuum cleaner a clean, simple operation; sixteen new appliance models, including a fully-automatic "pop-up" toaster which is thermostatically controlled, and a full new line of washers, featuring new streamlined design and enlargement of tub capacity.

MILITIA BILL PASSAGE SEEN

Senate Rejects Proposal to Let Guardsmen Resign Before Training.

As soon as the guard bill is acted upon, the senate will take up the Burke-Wadsworth conscription measure. A closely-knit group of senators met yesterday in the office of Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.) to plan for a "full debate, no compromise fight" against the legislation.

"I hope that there will be the maximum number of speeches," said Senator Nye (R-N.D.), one of the foes, but he added that this did "not at all" mean a filibuster.

Possibility of a compromise, Nye said, was not discussed. The bill as approved by the senate military committee would require registration of all men from 21 to 30, inclusive, followed by a selective draft for a year's training.

The conscription bill probably will not come up in the house until the senate has acted, because its military committee is going to reopen its hearings. Among the new witnesses will be General John J. Pershing, an advocate of compulsory military service, and Harry Woodring, former secretary of war who is supporting the voluntary enlistment plan.

DIVE BOMBING TACTICS USED IN NEW RAIDS

British Fliers Blast Nazi and Italian Military Objectives.

German abandonment of industrial establishments in the Ruhr, however, was considered unlikely. Informed sources said each successive British raid reveals German efforts to repair damage caused by previous attacks.

British authorities at the same time revealed that 19 lives were lost two weeks ago when German submarines torpedoed the British passenger liner Accra off the west coast of Ireland. The London Daily Telegraph said that warships convoying the steamer immediately sank the two U-boats.

An official British announcement revealed that the Churchill government and the French national committee headed by Gen. Charles De Gaulle have signed an agreement under which Britain —provided she wins the war— promises to establish an "independent" France.

From Cairo came word that Italian troops, penetrating some 50 miles into British Somaliland, have gained control of the port of Zeilah and the towns of Hargeisa and Odweina.

At Riom, France, a heavy guard surrounded the palace of justice, where the trial opens this afternoon of former French government leaders to establish their responsibility for France's defeat.

Italians Expected To Rush Offensive

CAIRO, Egypt —(AP)— Italian armies in Libya, fearing intensification of the British naval blockade and faced with dwindling water and war supplies, are expected to launch a grand offensive by mid-August in an attempt to break Britain's stranglehold on the north African coast.

The Italian push into British Somaliland, which resulted yesterday in the fall of the Port of Zeilah, was looked upon here as more or less a move to divert British power to defense of that territory, preliminary to the big push.

(Fascists in Rome said occupation of Zeilah was the first step in their current offensive to incorporate British and French Somaliland into Italian East Africa. Its success would give Italy command of 2,500 miles of coastline from the Gulf of Aden to the Indian ocean.)

British warships, patrolling almost the entire length of the Libyan coast, from a line of steel blocking attempts of Italian water tankers and supply ships to get through from Italy to Libya.

Practically all the water used by the Italians in eastern Libya has been transported from Italy, since Libya largely is a stretch of desert.

Italy's desperate desire to attempt to crack British lines along the Egyptian frontier apparently is influenced largely by the vital necessity of keeping water and oil flowing in for her Libyan fighters.

Nazis Lay Mines In British Water

BERLIN —(AP)— German planes laid mines at the entrances to several English harbors last night and attacked a number of armament works and anti-aircraft and searchlight positions, the German high command announced today.

The high command's daily communique said motor works in Leyland, the Vickers-Armstrong plant at Chester, airplane works at Yeovil and industrial plants at Plymouth were targets of bombers. It listed British defense positions at Manchester, Cardiff, Dorchester and Plymouth as additional objectives.

British raids over north and western Germany last night were said to have been carried out "without causing much damage." Fires in a suburb of Essen and at Datteln were reported to have been extinguished quickly.

The Germans said one of their submarines sank three armed enemy merchant ships of over 16,000 tons.

The communique did not elaborate on the mine-laying.

Russo-Turkish Alliance Reported

BUDAPEST—(INS)—Alarmed by joint German and Russian pressure, the Turkish government sought today to appease the Soviets and was reported to have offered Moscow a Russo-Turkish alliance.

Such an alliance, if formed, undoubtedly would give Russia some share in control of the vital Dardanelles.

According to reports in Budapest, under the proposed alliance, Russia would insist that Turkey pledge herself to defend the Iranian oil fields in the event any third party attacked Iran.

In return, it was stated, Turkey would demand that Russia guarantee Turkey's northern frontier in the event Turkey became involved in war in Syria.

Berlin and Moscow cooperated in pressure upon Turkey as moves for settlement of Balkan revisionist claims progressed.

With the support of Germany, it was understood, Hungary is demanding return of half of Transylvania, which Hungary lost to Rumania after the World war.

Hungary's claims were presented to Raoul Bossy, Rumanian minister to Rome, at a conference in Budapest by Premier Count Paul Teleki and Foreign Minister Count Stephen Csaky.

HIT BY CAR

James Holtz in Serious Condition After Accident at Shelby.

SHELBY—James Holtz, 51, of Taylortown is in a serious condition today at Shelby Memorial hospital from injuries received Wednesday night when he was hit by a car on Main street downtown.

Holtz, who suffered fractured legs and skull and body bruises, was hit by a car driven by Henry Weber, jr., when he stepped out from a behind a parked car into Main street near the west side square, police said.

Witnesses told police Holtz failed to look up and down the street before he started to cross. The impact knocked Holtz to the pavement and threw him about 50 feet, police revealed.

In attempting to miss Holtz, Weber, jr., turned his car into a parked car owned by Jack McCormick, merchant patrolman. The McCormick car was damaged slightly, police stated.

ILLNESS FATAL

Mrs. Charles Neal, 65, Dies In Shelby Hospital.

SHELBY—Mrs. Charles R. Neal, 65, died Wednesday at Shelby Memorial hospital after a lingering illness. Born in Shelby Jan. 26, 1875, Mrs. Neal spent her entire life in this city. She was a member of First Church of Christ.

Surviving are two sons, Rev. W. P. Neal of Akron and Carl E. of Shelby; a half-brother, Virgil Cline of Florida; four half-sisters, Mrs. Clara Cline, Mrs. L. L. White and Mrs. Henry Nimmons, all of Shelby; and Mrs. Ila Gano of Florida and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Barkdull funeral home at 2:30 p. m. Saturday with Rev. R. Taffle Crowe of the Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

DERBY RUN WITHOUT A HITCH FOR 4TH CONSECUTIVE YEAR

the largest in history. From the air the crowd looked like a swarm of bees near a hive.

Walter Powell who drove the truck that transported the small derby cars up the track was still driving in circles in his sleep last night. And why not? He made more than 30 round trips on the truck taking the heat winners back to the starting ramp.

And Frank Humbert and James Au, know what those cars weighed after they had loaded and unloaded them 30 times, too.

* * *

Nancy and Carolyn Cox, 388 West Third street, led a cheering section of fair young damsels at the finish line and greeted each heat winner.

Before the derby was over someone had labeled the little lassies with the name of "Cox's army."

* * *

Credit for handling the huge crowd and the countless autos goes to Sergt. E. P. Webb, Corp. C. F. Strayer and Patrolman W. C. Smith of the state highway patrol, Deputy Sheriffs C. C. Gongwer and Joseph R. Hetler and C. W. Kyler, Mansfield motorcycle officer who escorted Champion Jack Thompson through the heavy traffic to Mansfield after the race.

* * *

Spectators reached seats on the banks that lines the new course with a minimum of confusion and watched the 1940 derby in the greatest of comfort. It was the first real break the crowd had gotten since running of the derby was started in Mansfield.

While the sun beat down most of the afternoon, clouds covered the sun at times and a cooling breeze swept over the audience continually. It was perfect Soap Box Derby weather.

* * *

Harry Hartz, former Indianapolis speedway champion who handled the checkered flag at the finish tape had only words of praise for the new Derby site.

Hartz, who has seen a lot of derby courses in his rambling around the country for the Chevrolet Motor company, co-sponsors of the racing event, termed the Mansfield course "ideal."

He said he had visited numerous derbies in the past several weeks and that Mansfield's course was the "best" he'd seen yet.

* * *

Although the race was held up 35 minutes while a final inspection of the track was made and several protruding bricks pounded down, the racing surface was smoother than any young Mansfield drivers have experienced in past years. Not a single accident marred yesterday's races and drivers themselves voiced praise for the selection of the new road for the running of the derby.

Incidentally, while there were 130 Soap Box Derbies run off this year in the United States, Panama Canal zone, Hawaii, and Canada, Mansfield's race yesterday was the last one before the running of the All-American and International finals at Derby Downs in Akron Sunday.

* * *

There's going to be a lot of overworked darkrooms besides the one at The News-Journal if the number of cameras at the derby can be taken as any criterion.

It was a field day for camera fans. Among them was Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who had his movie lens set up at the finish line.

* * *

Most overworked person was undoubtedly James Hunter, 14, of Ashland road, who dragged News-Journal Photographer Harold Valentine's big black bag containing plates and bulbs all over the place.

Young Hunter said after the race: "You don't know what work is until you try to follow one of those cameramen around for awhile. First they're here and then they're there."

* * *

What a job that business of racing a derby car is, too. Jack Thompson, the champ, wanted something to eat right after the race. Brought to The News-Journal office, his pals, both former champions, Loren Wiley and Gene Kindinger, sent out for hamburgers. They didn't last long.

* * *

Several youngsters got a bird's-eye view of the race. They were perched on top of a huge billboard, high on a hill beside the track. The sun didn't bother them.

Herbert Klopfenstein, the class "B" champion, devised a novel way of constructing his derby racer. The body was built entirely of papier mache.

Pit men for young Thompson were two former champions, Young Wiley, the 1938 winner, and Gene Kindinger, the 1939 champion.

Spectators had their fun, too. Contrary to regular procedure several persons who lined the track were engaged in placing bets on the winning lanes instead of on the drivers.

RICHLAND COUNTIANS PLAY BIG ROLES AT CITIZENSHIP PICNIC

Mansfielders played an important part yesterday in the Governor's Citizenship day picnic at Chippewa Lake park, with three of them arranging and announcing most of the program and two others taking major prizes in the day's contests. Approximately 6,000 persons, including about 250 from Richland county, attended the outing.

Murray D. Shaffer, Ashland division state highway engineer, was a member of the committee which planned the day's activities; Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch presided during the afternoon program, introducing state officials, and Atty. John L. Catlett awarded prizes, announced the bathing beauty contest, and handled most of the public address announcements on the grounds.

Miss Geraldine Brightbill, 17, Mansfield Senior high school pupil, was runner-up in the bathing beauty contest, winning a fitted traveling bag. First prize, a cruise on the Great Lakes, went to Miss Maxine Drumm of Bucyrus.

Miss Brightbill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Brightbill, 248 South Main street, is an accomplished dancer and musician, frequently appearing in musical and ballet programs in Mansfield.

Mrs. John Friday, west of Mansfield, won a new automobile, the grand prize awarded last night.

In the band contest, the Bellville band took second prize of $10 in cash. Four bands from northcentral Ohio cities competed.

Gov. John W. Bricker, in the principal address, urged the awakening of a new spirit of patriotism to "keep America ever strong, ever ready to protect its heritage of opportunity and freedom."

"Our first line defense is not our navy and army, but the American spirit and heart and soul and the patriotism of our people," he said.

After his address, Gov. Bricker presented a book on "Citizenship" and an American flag to four new citizens who appeared on the platform.

Judge Kalbfleisch introduced state officials, including State Treasurer Don H. Ebright, Attorney General Thomas Herbert, and Hal Sours, assistant director of highways. Other guests were Judge Walter Wanamaker of Akron, Judge Clinton D. Boyd of Middletown, and Oscar Dunn, state chairman of the board of county commissioners.

Sunny Valley

Sunday afternoon callers in the Scott Camp home were Robert Norris of New London, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Metcalf and daughter, Donna Jean.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Easterday of Wooster, and Mr. and Mrs. Willard McKinley of Jeromesville were Sunday afternoon callers in the William Barr home.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Royd Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Smith were Sunday afternoon callers in the B. Brinstuhl home near Nova.

* * *

Misses Mary Ellen and Norma Kuntz returned home after spending the past two weeks at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Eagle.

Soap Box Derby at Derby Downs, Akron, next Sunday.

This was Jack's fourth Derby competition. He entered the Derby at Newark last year, while the two consecutive years before that the competed in the Derby here. But yesterday was the first time he made a real bid for the championship.

Thompson gained access to the finals by nosing out Don Watson for the Class "A" crown, then meeting Klopfenstein who captured the Class "B" title from William Eilenfeld in a thrilling nose-to-nose finish.

Credits Faster Wheels.

Each of the four years that Jack entered the Soap Box Derby, he has constructed a complete new car. He believes that a different style of wheels—"faster" wheels, he called them—did the trick yesterday afternoon.

Ray Hout, candidate for county commissioner on the Democratic ticket, sponsored the car. The most expensive parts of the "Rollin' Star," Thompson said, were the wheels. In all, the coaster cost $9.50.

Different from a great many other racers competing in the Derby yesterday, the "Rollin' Star" was not streamlined. Thompson centered all his efforts on building a practical, light, speedy racer and let it go at that. It took him a full two months to build the car, he said.

Young Thompson, who is a 11th grade student at Madison High school, rates football, and basketball as his favorite hobbies, but he hasn't gotten around to trying out for any of the Madison teams as yet.

The 1940 classic was marked by fewer thrills and chills than in any of the four past Soap Box Derby days. Not once during the afternoon did an accident even threaten to mar the orderly procedure of yesterday's contest.

The huge crowd that lined the runway and jammed on to the knolls on each side of the road to get a better view of the race was orderly and responsive. It was estimated by the officials that more people attended the 1940 races than last year's classic.

Cliff Walker, John Sposty, and Bill Zimmerman in their slick new racers caught the imagination of the crowd in the early Class "A" heats. However, they fought their way into the semi-finals only to be downed by either Thompson or Don Watson. The Class "A" division included boys from 13 to 15 inclusive.

Thompson took care of both Walker and Zimmerman in the semis, while Watson proceeded to nose out Sposty in a close race.

In the Class "B" group, which included boys from 11 to 12 inclusive, the field soon narrowed down to a finals battle between Herbert Klopfenstein, of Crestline, the Friendly House entry, and William Eilenfeld.

Klopfenstein won, but the margin between the two racers as they thundered across the final white line was no more than a whisker's breadth. Harry Hartz, however, ruled Klopfenstein the Class "B" champion.

Donald D. Cram, of the Y. M. C. A., was director of the Derby. Other officials included Mayor William J. Locke, as marshall of the day; Harold D. Burns, chairman of hilltop operations; Nick White, starter; Ira Kochheiser, head judge; Glen Robinson and John Catlett, judges; Meade K. Bates, safety director; Harker Enlow, first aid director; Charles Martin, clerk of the course; Lee Smaltz, car judge; and Irvin Brune, weighmaster.

The race, outstanding American amateur racing event, is part of a nationwide series run off in 100 cities with the co-operation of leading newspapers.

All cars were built by the youngsters who piloted them and none cost more than $10 to construct.

The Mansfield Soap Box Derby was sponsored by The News-Journal, Mohican Chevrolet company, and the Y. M. C. A.

Prizes for Class B.

In the Class B division, William Eilenfeld finished second and Charles Butler, third. The prizes Eilenfeld received were: silver medal, Chevrolet Motor corporation; binoculars, News-Journal; softball, Y. M. C. A., flashlight, Diemer Canfield station; tie chain and pin, Mohican Chevrolet company; baseball bat, Madison theater, and a brush kit, derby officials. For Butler were: bronze medal, Chevrolet Motor corporation; brush kit, News-Journal; tie chain and pin, Mohican Chevrolet company; flashlight, Diemer Canfield station; softball, Y. M. C. A., and baseball bat, Madison theater.

Clifford Walker walked off with top prize for the best upholstered coaster. He received a pen and pencil set, Collins and Aikman company, and a tie chain and pin, Mohican Chevrolet company. Thompson, who won the classic, was second in this group. His prizes were tie chain and pin, Mohican Chevrolet company and a brush kit, News-Journal. William Zimmerman was third and was awarded a tie chain and pin, Mohican Chevrolet company and a brush kit, News-Journal.

Thompson copped first place for having the best designed auto. He received a flashlight from the Deimer Canfield station; tie chain and pin, from Mohican Chevrolet company, and a brush kit from The News-Journal. Don Watson was second and Walker third. Each received a tie chain and pin from the Mohican Chevrolet company, and a brush kit from The News-Journal.

Meter distributors will be asked to state the time required to complete installation and are required to furnish a performance bond for the full amount of the contract.

City council unanimously authorized the installation of the meters for a trial period at its August meeting Tuesday night.

Crafton asked that a committee including members of council's street and finance committee be named to assist him in setting up meter zones and deciding on the type of meter to be purchased.

Legislation approved by council did not specify whether the machines are to be automatical or manually operated. It did no designate parking zones and the type of meter, whether the should be of the nickel or pen type also was not dseignated.

RESOLUTION NO. 40-81

By MR. KYLE:

Declaring it necessary to improve Lawn View Avenue from Overlook Avenue to Cline Avenue, by constructing a sanitary sewer therein.

Be It Resolved by the Council of the City of Mansfield, State of Ohio, three-fourths of all members elected thereunto concurring.

Section 1—That it is necessary to improve Lawn View Avenue from Overlook Avenue to Cline Avenue, by constructing a sanitary sewer therein.

Section 2—That the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles of the proposed improvements heretofore prepared by the City Civil Engineer and now on file in the office of the Department of Public Service, be and the same are hereby approved.

Section 3—That the whole cost of said improvement, less one-fiftieth of the total cost shall be assessed by the foot front upon the following described lots and lands, to-wit: all lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement which said lots and lands are hereby determined to be specifically benefitted by said improvement; and the cost of said improvement shall include the expense of printing, publishing and serving the necessary legal notices, the printing and publishing of the necessary resolutions and ordinances, the cost of construction and inspection together with interest on bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred assessments, and all other necessary expenditures.

Section 4—That the assessments so to be levied shall be paid in three annual installments, with interest on deferred payments at the same rate as to be borne by the bonds to be issued for the same; provided that the owner of any property assessed may at his option pay such assessments in cash within thirty days from and after the passage of the assessing ordinance, in which case said cash assessment shall not include any item of interest upon bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred installments of assessments.

Section 5—That bonds of the City of Mansfield shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto.

Section 6—That the remainder of the entire cost of said improvement, not specially assessed, together with the cost of any real estate or interest therein purchased or appropriated, and the cost and expense of any appropriation proceeding therefor, and the damages awarded any owner of adjoining or abutting lands and interest thereon and the cost and expense of such award shall be paid by the City of Mansfield, Ohio, in the manner provided by law.

Section 7—This resolution shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed June 4, 1940.

Willkie Wants Super-Hatch Act for Office Holders

STRICT CHECK UPON FEDERAL OFFICES URGED

Statement of Personal Wealth Before and After Service Advocated by Nominee.

(By International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS — Wendell Willkie stood fast today on two of the most amazing collateral proposals ever made by a presidential candidate.

What Willkie proposed, in effect, was a super-Hatch act which would:

1.—Force high officials of the federal government up to and including the president, to file statements of their personal assets with the secretary of state on taking and leaving office.

2.—Prevent members of the immediate families of such officials, including the president, from receiving compensation for any services performed for anybody in connection with the transactions of any department of the federal government.

In addition, Willkie promised that whether or not amendments that nature were added to the Hatch act, he would give the widest publicity to his own assets and those of members of his family if elected president and would file statements with the secretary of state.

"I am in favor of all amendments to the Hatch act necessary to make it air-tight in carrying out both its provisions and its spirit," Willkie told a press conference and then launched into his double-barreled proposal.

One reporter whistled as the proposal was made and the candidate grinned, obviously enjoying the effect.

HYDE PARK, N. Y. — (INS) — Definite plans for President Roosevelt's home-stretch drive to win a third term election against Republican nominee Wendell Willkie were in the making today as Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace came to Hyde Park for a strategy conference with his running mate.

Present in advance at the Roosevelt Hudson valley home was Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins, who manipulated pre-convention maneuvers at the Chicago Democratic convention for the president and who seems destined to play an important, though backstage role in the current campaign.

This afternoon, the three men planned to debate methods of bringing victory to the Democratic ticket again.

Edward J. Flynn, who will take over the Democratic national chairmanship from James A. Farley on Aug. 17, was not to be present. Flynn was in Washington conferring with other New Dealers on the manner in which he will manage the Roosevelt-Wallace campaign.

Galion Truck Driver Bound to Grand Jury in Death of Policeman.

GALION—John E. Smith, 26, Galion truck driver, pleaded guilty in Mayor W. M. King's court today to a first degree murder charge in connection with the slaying of Patrolman Clarence H. Upson, 71, of Galion, and was bound over to the Crawford county grand jury.

The murder charge was filed late Wednesday by Police Chief George E. Moody of Galion after authorities had investigated the case for four days.

Smith, who previously admitted knocking the veteran patrolman down with his fist during a dispute in Galion last Saturday afternoon, was brought before Mayor King shortly before 11 a. m today.

"How do you plead to this charge, John?" the mayor asked.

"Guilty," Smith replied in low voice.

Following the hearing, Smith was returned to the county jail at Bucyrus by Sheriff A. H. French and Deputy Ralph Schreck. No date was set for the grand jury session.

BIDS GUEST GOODBYE ON TRAIN, STAYS MINUTE TOO LONG AND---

Ulysses, in his series of misadventures, didn't have a whole lot on William Mogg, West First street, when he started out on a little trip to Galion the other night, and came home by way of Cleveland.

Mogg, an engineer at the Ohio Brass company, and Mrs. Mogg decided to take a house guest over to Galion to catch a train for Cleveland. They borrowed the car of a friend, intending to run over and right back. But it was eight hours before they returned and thereby hangs a saga of misfortune.

When they arrived at the station in Galion, Mogg took the guest aboard the 7 p. m. train. He stayed to chat a few minutes, but it was a minute or so too long, for when he tried to get off he found that the train was already in motion.

Three facts rushed through his mind: his wife was back in the car, he had the car keys in his pocket, and keeping the keys company were just 26 cents—all he had with him.

He rushed to find the conductor and explained his predicament. The conductor was sympathetic, but adamant. It was a through train, he said, and the next stop was Cleveland, ticket or no ticket.

So Mogg went to Cleveland and back on another train and arrived back in Galion at 12 midnight. Strangely enough the train that makes no stops on the way up, stops at every cross road on the way back—which didn't add anything to his ease of mind.

He got off the train, dashed over to the car expecting to see it deserted, but there was Mrs. Mogg, unperturbed and unworried. But she too, had encountered circumstances that added to the family misfortune. First, she tried to call friends in Mansfield to come after her, but everyone was out for the evening. Then she went to the Galion hotel to wait in comfort—but the hotel was closed for redecorating.

"But how," she demanded, "did you get BACK without a ticket?"

Her husband explained.

The conductor, it seems, was a family man and when Mogg told his sad story, adding that he had no money for a return ticket, the conductor looked at him sympathetically and said:

"Did you say your wife was waitin' back in Galion for you and would have to wait until you get back? Mister, I'm not adding to your troubles—you can ride free."

BROMFIELD IN FAVOR OF DRAFT

yet all it does is ask every able American to do his duty to his country and if he refuses, it forces him to do it."

The volunteer system, as suggested by opponents of conscription, may be all right, Bromfield said, but it may not work and it is not democratic.

"It would mean that our defense system would be made up largely of unfortunate young men who have no jobs or are not equipped to do anything. We need capable young men from all classes in our important defense job, and it is only one of our democratic principles that prompts the government to call on them to defend the things their forefathers fought for.

"I have been worried about our young people for a long time. Too many of them have made a racket of life, taking all they can from it and giving nothing back. A year of training in a military camp will give some of them a sense of having achieved something.

"I can't see how conscription can be labeled a dictator move as long as the nation is not ruled by a dictator or clique and the nation is so vast and diversified in its interests." Bromfield continued.

"With all its faults, our democracy is still the best system on earth. Our people are 10 times happier than any other, but the trouble is that we get too happy and listless when there is no threat of war and may drift into the error of France. England and other European countries.

"In France, the awakening came too late. The country had already been sold out by a minority communistic class that had set up a dictatorship. The France that fell was no longer a democratic France.

"England was in the hands of a dictator class too, but it was made of the extreme conservatives who were willing to sacrifice everything for the sake of continued trading with other powers. That group has been removed now, but it may have been done too late," he said.

The program was in charge of S. Glenn Vinson. Approximately 100 members and guests heard the talk.

Judge Warns 2nd Arrest Will Cost Him License.

Warning that a second offense would cost him his driving rights, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch this morning fined Clinton L. Lawrence, 135 East Arch street, $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of speeding.

Patrolman C. W. Kyler testified that he arrested Lawrence yesterday while he was driving 45 miles an hour on Ausdale avenue.

Eugene F. Robinson, colored, Cleveland, arrested by state highway patrolmen for unsafe driving on U. S. route 42 south of Mansfield will be arraigned in municipal court Monday. He posted $25 bond for his appearance.

JAPS COMPLAIN ON BURMA ROAD

Report War Materials Still Reaching China.

TOKYO—(INS)—War materials are still moving to China over the Burma road despite Britain's agreement to close the famous route to such traffic, a Japanese naval spokesman charged at a press conference today.

"Information is on hand," he declared, "that traffic in war materials is still going on over the Burma road.

"If true, it shows that Britain is not keeping her promise. The situation should be clarified."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 8, 1940

As it now appears, the meek are not to inherit the earth until after the Hitler administration.

A much-used traffic street is a poor place to demonstrate how long a public works job can be dragged out.

The death of Dr. Frederick Cook revives memories of a quiet time back in 1909 when people could be all stirred up by a North Pole controversy.

One Point of Agreement

ONE point of agreement, in the heat of controversy over conscription, voluntary enlistment, aid to England, neutrality—and all the related subjects—is that the United States of America is WORTH SAVING and should have sufficient military force to protect itself against any foreign power, or combination of powers, that might attack it.

But from that point of agreement opinions immediately diverge as to imminence of danger, methods of building up a stronger army and navy, advisability of giving immediate aid to Great Britain by supplying badly needed destroyers, and many other national issues having to do with world conditions.

The course that has been pursued by the national administration thus far has seemed to reflect an effort to satisfy widely varying views as to what the attitude of the United States should be toward the European war.

Administration sentiment, however, has been quite obviously favorable to support of Great Britain, by all means short of war," but this preferment has not yet reached the point of sanctioning sale of fifty or more "over-age" World war destroyers to England, as is being strongly urged.

If, as many well informed observers now believe, the future safety of America lies in Great Britain winning the war against its totalitarian enemies, it would appear that the time for procrastination and dilly-dallying has passed and quickest possible aid should be given by supplying destroyers that can be spared, and such other supplies as may help in keeping war out of the Americas—or in giving more time for preparation, in the event of warfare eventually being brought to the Western Hemisphere.

Costly Slowness on West Fourth

WHEREVER the blame rightfully rests for delay in the work of re-paving Fourth street, from Diamond street west, even the most casual observers could scarcely fail to note that the preliminaries have been carried along in slow motion and have already extended weeks beyond the time that would have been required, under other conditions, to make the street passable between Diamond and Bowman streets.

Aside from public inconvenience and traffic congestion caused by closing a long stretch of Fourth street, many business places on the street have suffered considerable trade losses because of inaccessibility, and danger of fires gaining headway on account of delays to fire-fighting equipment is much greater.

Accepting the situation as it now is, without futile adverse criticism of the slowness of progress to date, it does appear that the necessary preliminary work should be speeded up as much as possible, so that the contract part of the job can be carried through with customary promptness and efficiency.

Typical Nazi Treatment

THE FRENCH merchant ship Menkes, recently torpedoed by the Germans, was carrying home to France about 1,200 French sailors who had decided not to enroll in the free French navy under Vice-Admiral Muselier, because they wanted to get home to see what had become of their families in France.

When their ship was torpedoed by the Nazis, about 300 of them were lost and the rest saved by the British. Most of the survivors had an abrupt change of heart. If that was the tone the Nazis were taking, they didn't need to go home to find out how things were—they knew. Moreover, they knew the answer. They have enrolled under Muselier and they will fight in their own free navy against the enemies of France.

Germany has a genius for turning into enemies people and nations who would have liked to remain her friends.

Taxi Drivers Set Example

DRIVERS of taxicabs are quite generally regarded as among the most competent motor vehicle operators in the city. This is probably one of the reasons why less efficient drivers are inclined to follow the example set by taxi drivers in such matters as speed, taking risks in passing other cars, ducking through amber lights at intersections, parking on the wrong side of the street, not coming to a full stop at "stop" signs—and other so-called "minor" infractions of traffic regulations.

In view of the fact that taxi drivers are thus placed in position of being the exemplars of other drivers it is particularly important that their decorum be impeccable.

It is quite in order, therefore, that Safety Director Crafton should instruct Chief of Police Bates to inform taxicab companies to make sure that all taxi drivers keep carefully within the law, so as to provide a safe example for ordinary drivers.

Wasted Sympathy

THERE seems to be a useful dental lesson, in a statement from Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the Smithsonian Institution. He has been studying Eskimos' teeth.

It happens that the Eskimos have often been pitied by other races because they seem to have so much trouble with mastication. But sympathy is unnecessary. They still manage to get along, in spite of the hard chewing they do on blubber, leather and raw meat.

Those who specialize on the dental preparation of hides have often been described as having their front teeth worn down to the gums. But it doesn't seem to matter much. Dr. Hrdlicka says they develop a "bony ridge of false teeth in the front of the mouth just behind the ordinary teeth." So Nature enables them to get along about as well as ever.

Teeth anyway, should be used. The less people use them, in eating soft and pre-digested foods, the quicker the teeth decay.

Inlanders envy the seacoast states this time of year; but Maine is issuing war bonds for coast defense.

And there's no, with Mr. Farley out of the picture, who'll do the predicting?

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Sherman Billingsley, the genial Oklahoma refugee who is the genial impresario of the Stork club, spends a cent and a half or so to send me a post card describing the wonders of his new air-conditioning system. During an evening, it filters out of the natural atmosphere more than 150 quarts of water—or, he adds, more liquid than all the customers are consuming during the same period.

Air-conditioning is a fine thing. Nevertheless, it would be nice if everybody would get together on it. The trouble is that nearly every establishment has its own separate air-conditioning system, and no two of them seem to agree on what temperature is right for the so-called human body, with the result that if you chase around much during the day you pass through a variety of atmospheres comparable to that inflicted on a piece of annealing steel.

Outdoors it's 90. You step into the building lobby, unair-conditioned, and it's 80. You walk into the elevator, which runs between the unair-conditioned lobby and the air-conditioned offices, and it's 75. You go into the air-conditioned office, and it's down to 65. And you've just been in that atmosphere a couple of hours getting acclimated when it's time to go out to lunch—to some restaurant that has its system down to 50. The only solution seems to be W. C. Fields' classic gag. In one of his shows he played a butcher, and every time he stepped into the refrigerator, he carefully donned a bearskin coat.

* * *

THIS Associated Press building of ours in Rockefeller Center is just a graveyard of shattered illusions. Downstairs there is a restaurant, and the two leading delegations of regular patrons are the AP men and the glamorous Rockettes from the neighboring Radio City Music Hall, who every day dazzle thousands of people from all over the country with their precision dancing.

Every day the Rockettes march into the restaurant, looking exactly like any other 50 girls in the world getting through with a hard day's work, and everybody asks, "Are those the Rockettes?"

And every day the squads of newspapermen amble into the restaurant, looking pretty much like any other group of men getting through the day's work—although many of them are men who have had adventures all over the globe and whose names are famous. And the waitresses remark, "You fellows don't look like newspapermen."

The only answer I can think of is that the waitresses must have been fooled by that old canard of Ben Hecht's, who pictured all reporters in one of his plays as scribes, who went around with a pint of whisky in one pocket, and a copy of the American Mercury in the other.

* * *

IF SOME fellow has a patent on cocoanut-straw hats with a blue band, he won't have to work again and his grandchildren probably won't either. Four out of five (well, maybe it's only three out of five) men around town are wearing them.

Also, an unusual number of girls are abroad on the Manhattan streets without hats, a condition which has concerned the hat people who are high-pressuring with the propaganda that "A woman can't look well without a hat." Conversely, the "progressives" are shouting the plausible argument that an attractive coiffure can be as beautiful as anything the milliners can manufacture from cloth. It's total war, and the casualties are legion.

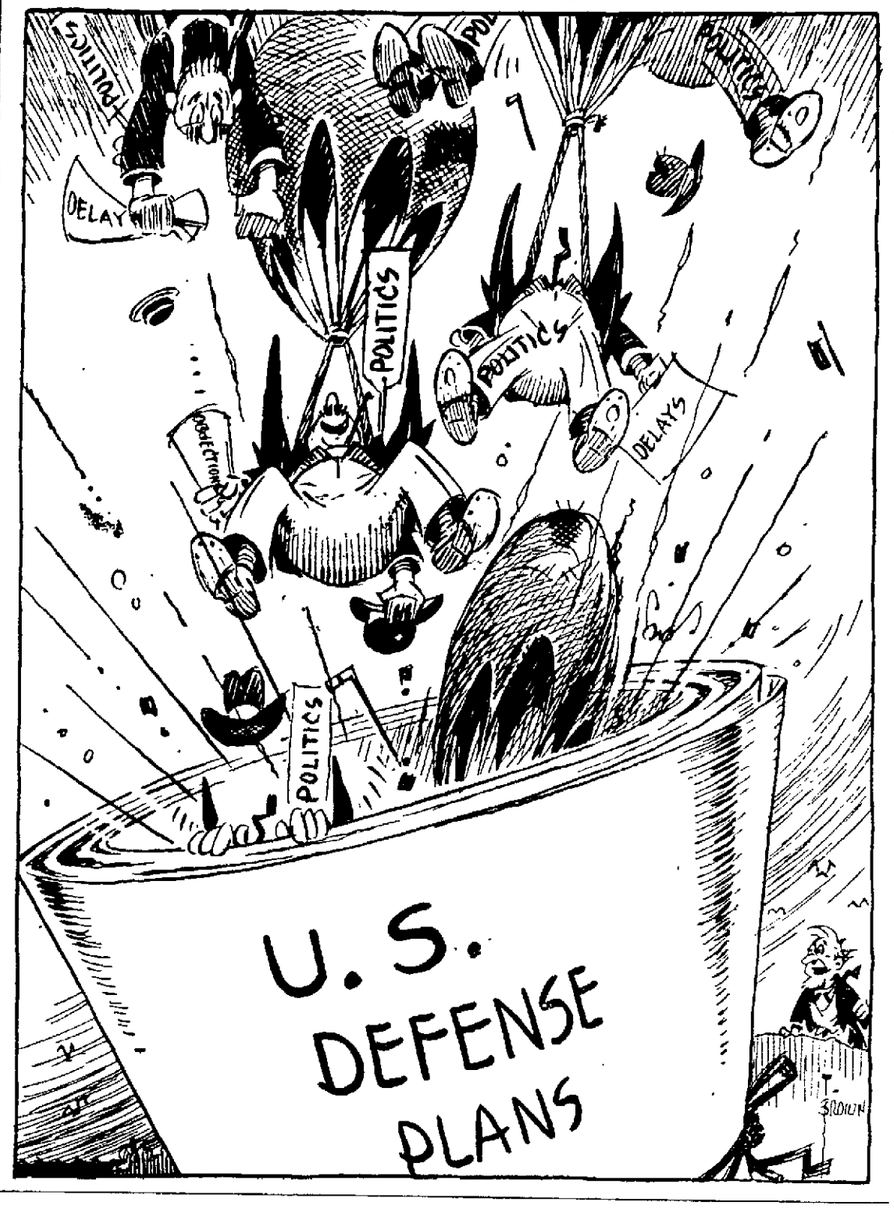
HERE THEY COME!



Havana Job Well Handled By Hull

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

CORDELL HULL, secretary of state, unquestionably has done more than any other single individual to make friends for the United States throughout Latin America.

HULL

Newspapers from that part of the world are beginning to arrive in this country with their accounts of the recent Havana conference of the western hemispherical republics representatives, and without one exception they are warm in their praise of Secretary Hull, who was chief of our delegation at the gathering in the Cuban capital.

And it takes an unlimited amount of tact for a Yankee to get himself and his country liked by Latin Americans. Generally speaking, we haven't the suavity that they appreciate almost more than any other human quality. Our idea of honest outspokenness is their idea of incivility.

Furthermore, it's undeniable that in the past Uncle Sam has occasionally been overbearing in his dealings with some of our southerly neighbors. They don't forget the Mexican war, for instance, or our landings of marines here and there, or Colombia's loss of Panama as a preliminary to our canal-digging project.

Herbert Hoover was our first president to suggest the desirability of a bit less big brotherliness in our relations with our smaller brethren on the New World's couple of continents and nearby islands. What Hoover said was essentially o. k. The trouble was, he didn't say it in the sugary tone of voice needed to make a hit with the Latins.

President Roosevelt's Palaver.

President Roosevelt, however, has exactly the right kind of palaver. For example, the way he says, "My friends," over the radio, couldn't possibly be improved on for Latin-American consumption.

But, of course, the president mainly has generalized. Secretary Hull's job at Havana was to talk specific turkey to the Latin representatives. The nub of his mission was to get the Monroe Doctrine accepted as a Pan-American doctrine—not only a Yankee policy but a policy subscribed to by the whole 21 of our western republics.

And it appears that he handled it to perfection.

He had substantial difficulties to overcome, too. A majority of the delegates, already won over to Yankeeism by President Roosevelt's earlier affability, seem to have arrived in Havana in a Yankeely acquiescent frame of mind. But there were a few balky ones, especially Argentina. That was understandable.

Argentina produces a surplus of almost the same commodities that we produce a surplus of. Consequently, the Argentines find no market for their stuff in the United States. They have to have European markets. Thus it was natural in them to hesitate to antagonize European customers by indorsing a distinctly anti-European Pan-American doctrine.

Nevertheless, the Argentine delegates, like all the other delegates, finally signed the compact, now known as the "Act of Havana."

Secretary Hull was so nice about it that they couldn't resist.

Just One Qualification.

The Argentines signed with just one qualification. They said that their signature didn't count until after the deal's approval by their home government.

There are other countries whose diplomats' signatures to treaties aren't binding until they're otherwise ratified. One such country is the United States. Illustratively, Secretary Hull's signature to the "Act of Havana" won't be valid until the senate has approved it. The senate's sure to do it and maybe the Argentine home government's approval isn't so much of a certainty. Still, we can't with a very good grace, complain of that qualification on the Argentine delegates' part.

Timely Editorial

Reduction In Pneumonia Deaths.

This is scarcely an appropriate season, from the weather standpoint, to talk about pneumonia, but some figures in the current issue of "Your Life" magazine make interesting reading even though the temperature remains in the 90's.

Because of advances made in the treatment of this disease through serums, sulfanilamide and sulfapyridine the chances for recovery of the average pneumonia victim now are 300 per cent better than they were in 1935. In five years deaths from pneumonia have been reduced in the United States from 150,000 to less than 50,000 per year. Moreover, the prediction is made that eventually the pneumonia mortality rate will be reduced to less than 4 per cent.

Here is a sensational gain in the field of medicine, no less dramatic because it has been achieved without great publicity. The fact that in a five-year period deaths from pneumonia have been cut by more than two-thirds doubtless will be a surprise to the majority of readers.—Columbus Dispatch.

New Book By Norwalk Author Arraigns New Deal Policies

FROM near-by Norwalk rises Harold R. Malcomb, author and lecturer on political economy and related subjects, to present a new book, "We Planned It That Way," which is such a comprehensive indictment of New Deal philosophy and policies as to give it a high place in campaign literature.

"As long as we are being taken for a ride, and paying for that ride, we should be allowed to ask where we are going and why," says the author in an introductory way. "It is none of our business what kind of government they have in Russia, Germany or Italy. It only becomes our business when their agents, by propaganda and direct action, seek to tear down and destroy what our fathers fought, bled and died to create."

Several chapters in the book are devoted to revelations of the spread of communistic activities in the United States, with an estimate that communist forces expend more than six million dollars annually in this country to "promote civil war leading to the overthrow of our government, so as to seize power and establish a Soviet America."

"There are over 610 national communist and affiliated organizations, with thousands of state and local branches, in heated revolutionary action in the United States today," is another thought-provoking statement.

As to the aims and objects of the New Deal, Malcomb writes: "The commissars of the New Deal know that if they do a good job of administration and bring the country back to normalcy, their jobs will automatically disappear. That is the very essence of Fascism, Nazism, Communism and New Dealism. All depend on one manufactured emergency and crisis after another to keep their people in line."

The writer also asserts that Fascism never developed in any country without reason, that Germany and Italy would never have resorted to Nazism and Fascism if the Communists—with their philosophy of destruction and hate had not driven the thinking people of these nations to the other extreme of Fascism and Nazism in self defense.

"The danger to America today," says Malcomb, "is not from Communism itself, but rather how to escape Naziism and Fascism as a defense against the rising tide of Communism."

In addition to the writer's own views on subjects treated in the book, the volume contains a considerable amount of assembled material of informational and statistical value, which had not heretofore been brought together in a form convenient for reference.

The book is published by Daniel Ryerson, Inc., New York City.

A Farmer's Diary

The Biggest Industry

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HAVE taken hilly byroads that were little more than trails, but at the end of every winding track I found a farmer's humble home and family. I followed a narrow road through a great woods and found a neat white farmhouse in a clearing just beyond. All about the fertile valleys great barns and prosperous dwellings stood. Cattle grazed "upon a thousand hills" and fields of waving grain stood tawny for harvest.

Our home county paper ran this headline, "Wheat Farmers Cut Grain From 30,000 Acres." That same item, varying only in time and numerals, was news all over this broad land last month. And wheat is just one crop!

I saw men in the fields at early morning cutting dewy blooming clover. By midafternoon it was raked, dried, into long windrows and hauled in ponderous lurching fragrant loads toward the barn. Wide fields of rustling mellow corn covered green plains. On gentle upland slopes tobacco spread its smooth soft leaves. In every barnyard were chickens, ducks or turkeys. Hogs, cattle, horses, sheep were part of every establishment.

Three times as many children were in the average home as are found in city dwellings—and they were busy. In one field I saw a boy of 12 upon a tractor while his brother, 10, rode the binder. The father, with two boys of 7 and 5, was shocking grain. Little sister less than 4, was coming out with the water jug. On the porch a tall girl wielded a scrubbing broom, while in the garden a woman with a hoe was stirring the earth about the cucumber hills. A typical farm family I thought.

I parked my car near a city intersection. It was morning. Large truckloads of cans of milk were going by. A trainload of stock cars filled with restless hogs and cattle sped by on the steel track. Solid trains of refrigerator cars — fruits, dairy products, vegetables and meat — moved eastward into the city.

My imagination swept across the nation and I knew that in every town, to a greater or less degree, this same thing was happening. Products from the land, produced by the labor of 40 million farmers, were flowing in endless streams of nearly constant volume, into the markets.

The bread basket of any nation is the first measure of its strength. To keep ours full, "shaken down and running over," is the tremendously vital task of the biggest and greatest industry—American agriculture.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The rigorous French censorship has suppressed the information, but former Premier Paul Reynaud will face a sensational charge when he is tried before the special war guilt court.

The scandal is based on what has become known in inner diplomatic circles as "Reynaud's trunk."

Following the French collapse, Reynaud attempted to escape from the country. His plan was to go to Portugal and embark for the United States, where he hoped to be made French ambassador. He made his dash in two automobiles.

In one he travelled with Countess Helene de Portes, the small, homely, shrill-voiced widow for whom he left his wife several years ago and had French divorce laws changed so he could marry her in 1941. As has been reported, this car went off the road, killing the countess and severely injuring Reynaud.

The other car contained Reynaud's two private secretaries, baggage and the mysterious trunk. This car was seized at the Spanish border. There, search of the trunk disclosed that it contained—

20,000,000 francs in paper money, presumably from French public funds.

A large quantity of gold.

Numerous confidential state documents, among them secret French plans for the destruction of Rumanian oil wells to prevent their falling into Nazi hands.

Confronted with this evidence in the hospital, Reynaud vehemently denied knowing anything about the contents of the trunk. He asserted that if the money, jewels and documents were taken, it was without his knowledge and approval. He placed the blame on the two secretaries.

Note—The Petain government, acting under Nazi orders, has not revealed the fact that Berlin has billed the French for a large sum to cover the cost of the German occupation. This will give Berlin the basis for a claim on French gold and dollar credits in the U. S., which the treasury took under control immediately after the French surrender.

* * *

General Pershing.

GENERAL PERSHING'S solemn warning that unless aid is given the British fleet to resist Hitler, the United States faces certain attack, was not a reply to the appeasement broadcast of Colonel Lindbergh. When the A. E. F. commander decided, after a study of confidential military reports, to come out of retirement and speak to the nation, he did not know that the flyer also planned to talk.

Also, Pershing wrote his speech without any knowledge of what Lindbergh would say. However, Pershing did tune in on the latter's broadcast. But it was only for a few minutes.

The General of the Armies became so incensed at Lindbergh's views that he turned off the radio and snapped, "That's outrageous. I'm saying nothing about that young man in my talk tonight, but I shall make it my business to do so on another occasion."

Note—Pershing has made only a few broadcasts, and when Miss Ann Gillis, chic Columbia Broadcasting press director, explained that the signal to begin speaking was a finger pointed at him, he laughingly inquired: "What's the signal to stop? That may be necessary, as I may start reading my speech all over again."

* * *

British Embassy.

NOT for a generation has there been such a lively and effective staff at the British embassy in Washington. Things have changed from the days of Sir Ronald Lindsay, when everything had to be "propah."

Lord Lothian started the change, but it has been broadened by the recent arrival of a corps of forthright young Britishers who are not career diplomats but recruits for war work. Today the embassy has no time for the cookie-pushers.

Here are some of the men who have brought new blood to the Georgian mansion on Massachusetts avenue:

John G. Foster, first secretary, successful young barrister who left a highly lucrative practice in London to serve in Washington.

Michael H. Huxley, first secretary in charge of press relations, cousin of famed scientist Julian Huxley and famed novelist Aldous Huxley.

A. D. Maris, first secretary, formerly attached to the ministry of economic warfare.

Redvers Opie, second secretary, former Don of Economics at Magdalene college Oxford, and lecturer at Harvard; his American wife is daughter of Harvard economist Frank W. Taussig.

Richard F. Heathcoat Amory, third secretary, successful young stockbroker, who spends most of his time with Americans in Washington. He represents the ministry of economic warfare.

P. C. Hill, third secretary, who married a Miss Borden of Chicago, and also represents the ministry of economic warfare.

William Gray Elmslie, attache, longtime resident of Colorado, whose late wife was a Pulitzer.

* * *

Alien Employes.

CHIEF job of the census bureau is to tabulate the population of the United States. But in these days of national defense, it is also acting as a clearing house regarding aliens, citizenship and other kindred questions.

Since the enactment of the various alien registration and anti-fifth column laws, census officials have been receiving on an average of 6,000 inquiries a week from individuals seeking to establish their American citizenship, and from employers anxious to find out if they have any undesirable aliens on their rolls.

Some concerns have sent their entire payrolls to the bureau for checking.

Most of the birth and citizenship queries are coming from airplane factories and other plants directly connected with defense production where aliens are now forbidden employment.

Census officials estimate that there are several million persons in the country whose birth records have never been filed with local authorities. To establish the citizenship of individuals of this group the bureau uses old census reports obtained from parents.

Merry-Go-Round.

John Hamilton no longer is GOP national chairman, but on the committee's new letter-heads his name appears as prominently as his successor, Representative Joe Martin. Hamilton's new title is executive director. . . . Secretary of State Cordell Hull was touched by the by-partisan welcome of members of congress upon his return to Washington from the Havana conference that tears streamed down his cheeks. . . . Representative Charles Halleck, original Willkie booster and renominator at the Philadelphia convention, is very much thumbs down with Townsendites. Halleck was elected to the house in 1928 with Townsend backing, but later opposed the old-age pension scheme. In retaliation Townsendites tried to lick him for renomination this spring, but without success. . . . William Knudsen, genial, soft-speaking national defense commissioner, works in shirt-sleeves and keeps his desk cleared of papers.

17 FROM RICHLAND 4-H CLUBS TO LEAVE FOR CAMP SUNDAY

Seventeen girls and boys of the Richland county 4-H Clubs will leave Sunday for a four-day camp period at Camp Craig, near Medina.

They will be joined by other 4-H boys and girls from Ashland, Wayne and Holmes counties. Accompanying the Richland county group will be Miss Bertha Heichel, Ontario, who will serve as a camp counsellor, and George B. Ganyard, county extension agent.

The camp program includes nature study, some classes, handcraft and recreational activities, a daily vesper service and evening camp fire. Purpose of the camp, Ganyard said, was to give the boys and girls practical training in "organized social association." Every one who attends camp will learn to swim.

The group going from Richland county includes Sonny Baylan, Mildred Luedy and Robert Shaffer, of Lexington; Ann Sir Louis, Frances Henry, Maxine Weaver, Mary Lou Osbun, Dorothy Clingan, all of Weller township; Rosella Wilson, Norma Jeanne Tingley, Margaret Tingley, Sophia and Mary Ellen Wojcik, all of Madison township; Miriam Stacy, Norma Jean Ruth, both of Lucas; and Margaret Johnson and Marilyn Hout of Pavonia.

Friendly House Officials Get Ready for Fall.

Plans are now being outlined by Friendly House officials for the opening of the settlement's fall and winter program on Sept. 1.

The first two weeks in September will be turned over to registration of children for the winter months, according to Russell Gimbel, director. Regular meeting of classes and clubs will begin following the completion of registrations.

The Friendly House again this year is seeking the help of men and women to assist in the winter program. Anyone interested in this work and willing to work for one hour a week or more, is asked to contact Mr. or Mrs. Gimbel at the settlement.

OREGON FOSSILS

MADRAS, Ore.—(INS)—Definite determination of fossils recently found near Madras as those of an extinct species of camel that ranged Oregon in mid-biocene times has been made by Professor George F. Beck of Central Washington college. The species represented in the Madras deposits is believed to be the giraffe-camel, a strange creature which scientists say roamed the northwest in Mescall times.

A suit for $1,500 property and personal injury damage was on file in common pleas court today, as the result of an accident at East Second and Diamond street June 26

Mrs. C. Dane Valentine, 229 East Second street, asks $1,200 for personal damages and $300 for damages to her car, from Mrs. James Villella, 223 West Sixth street.

Mrs Valentine alleges that Mrs Villella "crashed" an amber light and failed to have her car under control and that as a result her car collided with the Valentine car, damaging it and inflicting personal injuries which resulted in impaired vision.

The suit was filed by the law firm of Beam and Beam.

COUPLE WED IN QUIET CEREMONY

ANNOUNCEMENT was received today of the marriage of Miss Mary Jayne Menke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Menke, Little Washington road, and Howard L. Guest, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Guest at Athens, Ga.

The ceremony was solemnized at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening in the parsonage of the Richland Church of the Brethren, with Rev. F. B. Million officiating.

The bride was attired in a street-length dress of navy blue, fashioned along princess lines, and with it she wore pink accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of yellow rosebuds and delphinium.

Miss Betty Daugherty was the bride's only attendant, and she wore a pink lace dress with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's best man was his brother, Comer Owens, also of Athens, Ga.

Mrs. Menke wore a dress of blue sheer crepe with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Owens were the only out-of-town guests in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Guest are now taking a short wedding trip, after which they will make their home at 445 North Pope street in Athens. The bride is a graduate of Madison high school, and she was employed by the Drake Furniture company. Mr. Guest has been employed by the Railway Express company in Athens since his graduation from high school there.

REGULAR SESSION.

Thirty members of the Women of Moose met for regular session Wednesday evening at the Moose home in charge of senior regent Mrs. Ferrell Six applications for membership were accepted in addition to routine business. Mrs. Edith Beilstein, chairman of the home-making committee reported on work done recently. Mrs. Alice Mast invited the entire chapter to her home for a party Aug. 14, at which time a covered-dish dinner will be served in the garden of the Mast home.

Warm Weather Beckons Groups To Outdoors

Church Class, Pocahontas Lodge Picnic In Park.

With the days just right so far as sun and warmth are concerned, many of the city's social groups are having outdoor meetings. Members of the Findley-Anderson Bible class held their annual family picnic yesterday evening at North Lake park, with 30 persons in attendance. The long dinner tables were decorated with bouquets of summer flowers.

Mrs. Orlan Hoyer, Mrs. J. W. Rusk, Mrs. Helen Melanson and Mrs. Maude Blakely were in charge of arrangements, and a social hour followed the dinner. The next regular meeting of the class will be with Mrs. Edwin Craig on Bowman street, Sept. 4. Mrs. George Knofflock and Mrs. I. F. Newcomer will be the assisting hostesses at that time.

Pocahontas lodge members and their families were guests last evening at a picnic given by members of the Past Chiefs' association at North Lake park. After dinner at 6:30 o'clock, the group spent the evening socially. Mrs. Clara Cramer and her committee planned the affair. There will be a regular lodge session in the Eagle hall tonight.

Helen Kuneman Honored With Shower Last Night

FOR the pleasure of Miss Helen Kuneman, bride-elect of Ferdinand J. Loykovich, was a party given yesterday evening by Mrs. Fred Caston of Cleveland and Mrs. Eugene Linham at the latter's home, 33 Glenwood boulevard.

Three tables of bridge were in play during the evening, and high score prizes were won by the honoree's sister, Mrs. M. J. Morton of New Castle, Ind., and Mrs. C. M. Preiss. Yellow and white predominated in the decorations of the small tables when luncheon was served.

Miss Kuneman received a shower of miscellaneous gifts from the guests, and she found these in a large yellow and white sprinkling can. The hostesses presented her with a gift of gold crystal in honor of the occasion.

Miss Kuneman and Mr. Loykovich will be married at 9:30 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 17 before the altar of St. Peter's Catholic church. Another party is being given for the bride-elect this evening at Wickliffe Manor, with Mrs. Carroll Protty, Miss Marguerite Creamer and Miss Alverda Hans as the hostesses.

Elect New Officers Of Church Society

Members of the Sisterhood of Mary and Martha of the First Brethren church met for a picnic Wednesday evening at Middle park. Sixteen were present. Installation of the new officers was held and plans were made to hold a meeting in September in the garden of Mrs. James Hoover's home, 388 Wood street, the date to be announced later. Miss Ellen Parrot will be the leader.

New officers of the group are Miss Marilyn Peat, president; Miss Dorothy Weddell, vice president; Miss Jean Baker, secretary; Miss Martha Longshore, assistant secretary; Miss Ruth Miles, treasurer; Miss Treva Miles, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Ralph Peat and Mrs. Charles Craig, advisors.

CHOOSE NEW MEMBERS.

Two new members were balloted into the Rainbow Assembly at a routine meeting held last evening at the K. of P. hall. Fifty-five were in attendance for the session. The next meeting will be held Aug. 21 for initiation service. Plans were made for family picnic to be held Aug. 16 at North Lake park, beginning at 6 p. m.

* * *

PLAY GAMES.

There were 39 members of the Learn-A-Stitch club present for a picnic at Liberty park Tuesday afternoon. The long tables were decorated with garden flowers, and later games were played. The meeting of Sept. 5 will be with Mrs. Joseph Herold on Lily street.

* * *

HAVE PROGRAM.

Mrs. Paul Roethlisberger and Mrs. Louis Emmer were in charge of the program at the regular meeting of the Women's Missionary society of the First Lutheran church which was held Wednesday evening at the parish house. Routine business was discussed after which the topic "India" was presented in program form. Mrs. George Hoover presided during the business. The 25 in attendance planned to hold a supper meeting at the assembly room of the church on Sept. 4.

REUNION SATURDAY.

Announcement has been made that the Jug's Corners school reunion will be held at the old schoolhouse on Aug. 10 with a dinner served at 12 o'clock. The afternoon and evening will be spent socially and with a program.

Social Sorority Has Session At Hotel

A combined business and social meeting of the Alpha Pi Sigma sorority was held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Tuesday evening. Reports on the recent convention were presented by the Misses Isabel Gerstmeyer and Ann Hager.

Prizes in the bridge games which followed were won by Miss Hager and Mrs. Harvey Houserman. The place of a picnic, which is being planned for Aug. 20, will be announced later. Miss Hager, Miss Marie Kalbfleisch and Mrs. C. R. Martin will have charge.

Fete Miss Wolfe With Luncheon, Bridge at Club

Carolyn Wolf and Mrs. Lowrey Plan Spinster Party Tonight.

Mrs. Harry C. Finefrock and Mrs. Anna R. Miller entertained with a luncheon-bridge party for Miss Louise Wolfe yesterday afternoon at the Westbrook Country club. The 14 guests present were seated at a long table, with the places set on a pink linen cloth. Summer flowers were used for the centerpiece, and the colors of the place favors harmonized.

Bridge was in play at three tables following the luncheon, and score prizes were awarded to Miss Carolyn Wolf and Mrs. Robert O. Banks of Ashland. Miss Alice Reaser of Ashland was another out-of-town guest in attendance. The hostesses presented the honoree with gifts of silver at the close of the games.

Miss Wolfe, who will become the bride of Edward H. Reaser of Ashland Saturday evening at St. Luke's Lutheran church, is being feted with a spinster dinner this evening at Mrs. Deming Lowrey's home on Edgewood road. Miss Wolf will be the associate hostess.

One Guest Present For Club Meeting

Mrs. Ralph Hall of Xenia was a guest for a meeting of the Golden Link club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Katherine Giffin, 95 South Diamond street. Following the business session, Mrs. S. E. Balliett gave a reading.

Rum was the diversion and prizes were won by Mrs. Otto Miller, Mrs. Eva Luchbaugh and Mrs. Balliett. Garden flowers and orange and white appointments decorated the tables when refreshments were served.

Mrs. Miller has invited the club members to her home, 154 Luther place, for the next regular meeting, which is scheduled to be held on Sept. 4.

Honors Daughter at Birthday Surprise

Mrs. Howard Schuck surprised her daughter, Ruth, with a party on her birthday yesterday evening at the family home, 165 East Fourth street. Games and dancing were the diversion, and at a late hour a wiener roast was held in the yard.

Frank Gfrer showed some motion pictures, and prizes in the games were awarded to Misses Etta Long and Dorothy Harbaugh. The honoree received many gifts from the guests. Mrs. Marjorie Schrack of Bellville was present for the affair.

SISTER ANNOUNCES SEPTEMBER NUPTIALS

Esther Jane Maxwell Will Become Bride of G. L. Heldenbrand on the First Day of Next Month.

TWENTY-TWO FRIENDS of Miss Esther Jane Maxwell learned of her approaching marriage to Glenn L. Heldenbrand when the prospective bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Adam Takos, entertained at her home, 124 Hedges street, yesterday evening.

The wedding will be an event of Sept. 1, and Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor of the First Christian church, will perform the ceremony before the altar of the First Congregational church at 3 p. m.

This announcement was made following a picture show at last evening's party. Bridge was the main diversion, however, and prizes were won by Miss Pauline Weaver and Mrs. Robert Boughton. Blue and yellow appointments were used to decorate the luncheon table. The hostess presented the honoree with a gift of silver.

Out-of-town guests at the affair included: Misses Marie Ellen Campbell, Betty Green, Vivian Kesling and Mrs. Richard Armstrong of Lexington and Miss June McCann of Marietta. Miss Green will serve as Miss Maxwell's bridesmaid at the wedding, while her brother, Edward Maxwell, will be the best man.

The bride-elect, who is the daughter of George H. Maxwell, 116 Dawson avenue, is a graduate of Lexington high school. Mr. Heldenbrand, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Earick, 132 Hedges street, was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and the Tasope School of Engraving in Aurora, Mo. He is now employed by the Railway Express company.

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Etzwiler were honored on their 36th wedding anniversary yesterday with a dinner at the family home, 96 Park avenue east. Their children gave the affair, with Miss Mary A. Etzwiler in charge. A tiered cake and roses decorated the dinner table, and the relatives present gave the couple many gifts.

Reveal Marriage On Birthday of Mrs. Homerick, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Weatherbie of Lincoln Heights announced the marriage of their daughter, Velma Joan, to Charles Homerick, jr., today, on the bride's birthday anniversary. The wedding was solemnized at Catlettsburg, Ky., on March 31, with Rev. Arden P. Keyser of the Methodist church officiating.

The bride, who is a graduate of Madison high school, has been employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Homerick, also a graduate of Madison, is an employe of the Westinghouse. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Homerick, sr., of Lincoln Heights.

On Aug. 18, the couple will take a motor vacation trip. They are now at home to friends at 116 Sherman avenue.

Treatments Improve Scalp Health

By MME QUI VIVE

Think of all the money that is spent to make the hair decorative. Women who have three permanents a year, go each week to a beauty shop for a shampoo and wave, have a trim now and then, maybe indulge in occasional color rinses, spend plenty in the course of twelve months. Fine! Good for business. But woman would be richer in beauty wealth if she spaced her shampoos a bit farther apart, had a scalp treatment twice a month. Beauticians affirm that women are negligent concerning scalp care. They know very well that modern treatments—consisting of brushing, massage and the use of therapeutic lamps—will do much to keep the glorious crown radiant and in good health.

We'll say this much for women: when they observe an excessive amount of raveling in the comb when they arrange their tresses, they do something about it. Not like men who wait until the old thatch thins down to nothing before they are aroused to action.

The hair is dependent, to a large degree, upon general health. Finicky eaters who suffer from a diet deficiency are inclined to have tress troubles. The hair lives on the blood streams which brings them groceries. If the groceries aren't the right kind the shafts are weakened, their hold on the scalp not strong.

* * *

Some hair specialists recommend halibut liver oil and yeast when the hair falls, believing that these elements supply necessary vitamins that are lacking. Vigorous brushing is a part of the treatment. It is precisely what a woman never does when her brain blanket is ailing. She can't bear to see all the silky threads nestling in the bristles of the brush. She should realize that every shaft that comes out is dead, that the brush cannot detach a live one.

Sleeplessness, worry, digestive disturbances have a depressing effect upon hair. Sunlight is stimulating. It warms the scalp, is a vitalizing tonic. When having your sun bath, run your fingers through your wool, lift it strand by strand so that the rays of the sun will penetrate every portion.

* * *

It is vitally important that every particle of soap should be rinsed away after the shampoo. Even a bland soap, left on the scalp, can prove slightly irritating. If you do your head washing yourself employ a shower or bath spray and use a current strong enough to rattle your brain cells. The soap must be melted. How often we harp on the subject! Yet women go on rubbing the bar of soap over their lovely domes, aren't able to dislodge the particles that adhere to the silky threads.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Aug. 9.

According to the lunar transits, social domestic or affectional matters will engage paramount attention. Other affairs are adversely aspected. There is menace of fraud, duplicity as well as loss through careless signatures. Reckless or drastic action may bring considerable penalty. In difficulties or tight financial crises it is probable that feminine generosity will come to the fore. But parties, festivities and sentimental values are uppermost.

Those whose birthday it is may have a more pleasant than prosperous year. The attention may be devoted to celebrations, sentimental attachments or good times generally. Business is jeopardized by fraud, treachery, careless signatures and documents, and also by rash and impractical moves. Study correspondence lest there be misconstruction and trouble. Be discreet in group action.

A child born on this day may be disposed to stretch the truth or exhibit other forms of duplicity or "shrewdness," to its detriment. But it will be socially gracious, refined and lovable.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I'm glad to hear that," Lillian said with sober face but twinkling eyes. "I should hate to feel that you had laid out any work that would put me in a hospital with an injured spine for the rest of my days. But what do you think about my suggestion for pressing Mother Graham into service in the nursery?"

"I think it's a very good one," I said. "But, I think we ought to talk to Katherine about it first."

"That of course," she assented. "Now, how shall we divide up the labors? I'm at your service."

"I must see Katie first," I said, thinking aloud, "and get her started on the library. Then we ought to see Katherine and Mother Graham and Miss Whitlock and Edith."

"Count me out there," she interpolated hastily. "I'll help you anywhere else. I'll work my dainty white fingers to the bone, but I'll have no part of that lady. She'd throw me out of the room anyway, if I should barge in—so—"

"I'm not planning that you should see her," I said, mentally agreeing with her last words. "But if you'll see Olga and Olina, also Mary and Noel and tell them about the plans for sleeping quarters, while I'm seeing Katie, I'll be most grateful. Our royal guests already know about keeping to their rooms, but impress that prohibition on Mary and Noel. They are the ones my father wishes most to guard."

"I'll put 'em all on their honor," she gibed, walking to the door with an airy farewell wave of her hand. But I did not go directly to the kitchen in search of Katie. Instead, I took a note pad and pencil from my desk, made a diagram of the room, jotted down on one page the pieces of furniture which must be removed to the living room, on another the location of the cots and other furniture which must be brought down to our "emergency barracks" and sketched in their location on the rough diagram I had made. I knew there was no use enlisting Katie's help until I had every detail at my fingertips.

When I had finished, I went to the kitchen, reflecting upon the grumbling and resentment most maids would give me for so much extra hard work so suddenly thrust upon them, completely upsetting their routine.

I knew better than to ask Katie what was the matter. That simply would send her into a more violent paroxysm. With the wisdom born of long years of conjugating her moods and tenses, I quietly sat down in another chair keeping my eyelids over my eyes, but watching her from beneath my eyelashes. I knew that her curiosity would get the better of any other emotion in another few seconds, and I was not surprised to see her lift a corner of her apron with extreme caution, shoot a glance at my downcast eyes, and jerk the apron back again. Then she quavered: "Who coom in?" with dramatic intensity.

"It is I, Katie, Mrs. Graham," I said humoring her mood, although I felt more like boxing her ears. "I need you very badly for some secret work my father wants done, but if you're sick, why—"

I had struck the note to which she never fails to respond. She sprang to her feet, sweeping the apron down from her tear-swollen face.

"I no seek," she said. "I shoost so mad at dot Jeem, dot beeg boonch of soup greens. I have to call my hoosband, dot I could shoost wring his fool neck, shoost like dose scheekens he vunt keel for me."

Simple Baking For Bride

By BETSY NEWMAN

Are you a June bride just getting set in your household duties? And are you a bit afraid of your own cooking, and does the idea of baking a cake hold terrors for you? Try this menu, and especially this easy cake recipe which is a life saver for brides as it never fails—and also always is a hit with hubby and guests.

Today's Menu.

Chipped Beef and Rice
Summer Squash
Tomato and Cucumber Salad
Apple Sherbet
Bride's Sponge Cake
Iced Tea or Coffee

* * *

Chipped Beef and Rice.

1 cup rice
2 qts water
1 tbsp. butter
½ lb. chipped beef

Wash rice thoroughly, boil, drain and dry. Shred chipped beef with scissors. Cook in frying pan with butter until crisp and slightly brown. Combine with hot boiled rice, blending with fork to avoid breaking rice kernels. This amount will serve 5 moderately.

* * *

Bride's Sponge Cake.

1 cup sugar, sifted
4 eggs, separated
4 tbsp. cold water
1½ tbsp. cornstarch
1¼ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. salt
Flour

Put cornstarch, baking powder and salt into measuring cup and fill cup with cake flour, sift three times. Beat egg whites stiff but not too dry, add half sugar slowly. To the egg yolks, which you should break into a large bowl, add water, lemon juice and vanilla and beat until light and foamy. Add remaining sugar a spoonful at a time, and fold in flour mixture, folding this mixture lightly into the whites. Bake 20 minutes at 325 degrees F., 30 minutes at 350, and 10 minutes at 375.

* * *

Apple Sherbet.

1 cup evaporated milk
2 tbsp. lemon juice
2 cups applesauce
Dash nutmeg.

Whip juice (or cream) very stiff, fold in lemon juice, apple sauce and nutmeg. Pour into cold freezing trays. This makes 2 pints.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

IS THE SUIT STOPPED?

Only one question is asked nowadays by top-flight players to determine whether or not a particular four-card suit is safely biddable. Does it contain enough strength to furnish probable stoppers if the hand eventually is played at No Trump? If the reply is in the affirmative, then the suit is as soundly biddable as one which contains the requirements printed in the earliest books on the game and in some of the unsound new ones. There is absolutely no reason for having a trick and a half at the top of the suit, so long as sufficient honor strength is found elsewhere in the hand.

That bidding occurred at only one table of a social duplicate game where the most expert pair in the room were engaged. South lost two club tricks, ruffed the next club, led a spade to the K and A, refused the diamond finesse, went to the table with the heart A, finessed the spade 10, finished hostile trumps with the Q, ran his remaining hearts for two diamond discards, ruffed the diamond Q, and so made his contract.

At other tables, after the universally made 1-Heart bid and North's 1-No Trump, all of the Souths now rebid hearts except one, who raised the No Trump to three. Some of these players got into 4-Hearts, but game is patently impossible there, with no way to avoid three losers in the minor suits and one in trumps, since there is no side suit except the evenly-balanced spade one, which should be the trump. The No Trump declarer also was defeated. All in all, this hand cries aloud that players who refuse to bid such four-card suits will pass up plenty of sure games.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.

Playing for 3-No Trumps, if South wins the opening trick with dummy's heart J, takes two high spades and then leads the spade J to the Q, what two discards should East make on the spade tricks?

CAMERA GOES TO SOAP BOX DERBY

Sunny skies smiled yesterday on the 4th annual running of Mansfield's soap box derby. Shown in the picture above crowds begin arriving on the knoll overlooking the starting line and the pits where youthful drivers are putting final preparations on their miniature cars. The photo at right shows a close-up of the pits with drivers and officials making a last minute check.

Here Robert Black, Madison theater employe, gives a pointer to his driver William Eilenfeld as the young racer puts a bit of oil on the axle before the start of the race. A majority of the cars entered in the race were sponsored by business houses and office-holders who paid for materials used in making the cars. Each racer was built by the driver himself, however.

Pictured above are the three champs of former derby runnings. Lester Griebling, left, took the trophy when the derby was first run in 1937. Gene Kindinger, seated in a "replica" of the car which won the first national soap box derby, is last year's winner. Loren Wiley, right, won the event in 1938. The picture at right is another view of the pits. At the extreme right Don Watson, second place winner, dons his helmet for the class A event.

Herbert Klopfenstein, who won the class B event, is shown here congratulating winner Thompson. After winning the class A feature Thompson defeated Klopfenstein to take the derby title. He holds the trophy presented to him by Derby Director Donald Cram. Harry Hartz looks on as the boys shake hands.

CHAPTER XIII.

Al's "Yellow Plan" was carried forward with elan up to and including the point at which the bellboy, carrying a huge box of flowers, pushed the buzzer of Room 369.

"Who is it?" Clara Marsh called, suspiciously. She must have come close to the far side of the door, for she could be heard plainly.

"Package for Miss Marsh," the boy said, as per instructions.

"A package? Oh!" Suspicion gave place to anticipation. "Wait a minute."

An interval — footsteps — and the door was opened.

"Flowers!" Clara was jubilant. "Tons of them. I'll have to send for more vases. I guess I'm using about all the vases in this hotel—you can put the box on the couch here in the reception room—"

At that moment the bellboy was thrust aside, the flower box fell to the floor, Al Martino had his back against the open door and Marilyn Marsh sped into the room. The door was closed quietly, but surely, behind her.

* * *

The two sisters stood looking at each other; the one pale and determined, the other reddening with anger.

Marilyn broke the silence: "I'm sorry, Clara. I had to see you."

"You sneak! You spy! How dare you break into my room when I told you to keep away from me! I warned you I'd have you put out. I'm going to do it, this minute. I'll call the manager. He'll see that I'm protected from spies He'll—"

Clara moved toward the telephone. She found Al blocking the way.

"I wouldn't do that if I were you," Al said. His voice crackled.

"YOU wouldn't. You're through telling me what I should do and what I shouldn't do, Mr. Martino. I'm doing as I please. You broke into my room. You were hiding outside. You forced yourself in when I opened my door to get a box of flowers. I'm calling the manager and I'll insist that he have you arrested."

"Punk. Even for melodrama, it's punk." Al's grin taunted. "Better play it an easier way, Blondie. These classy hotels don't like rows; they annoy the other customers. They don't like guests who holler for the cops. It gets in the papers and scares off the carriage trade. The manager might find that he'd reserved this suite for a party from Chicago, beginning today, and that there wasn't another vacant room in the place."

"He wouldn't dare. I'd tell Herman Hess. Herman knows everybody, the most important people in New York—Herman'll see that—"

Al laughed uproariously. His laugh was more taunting than his smile.

"Hear old Hermie. Moths have been nibbling on him for years, but he won't give up. It's the gals that get him that way. A sucker for blonds, especially dumb blonds. Listen, Backward, if Hermie hears there's a little sister banging on your hotel door determined to save you from a fate worse than death, and if he hears the old folks at home might take steps, he'll let you down so hard you'll bounce for a week. That's the way the Hermies in this town are. They're allergic to fond parents, irate husbands, big brothers and little sisters with rescue impulses. Better not count on Hermie. He's liable to take a ride on the China Clipper."

Clara's native cunning told her that Al might be right. She must not lose Herman, not until after the new floor show opened in the Blue Parrot and she had become the sensation Herman promised she would be.

"If you're afraid to have me call the manager, if you both insist on staying where you're not wanted, maybe you'll say what you have to say and get out," she said, with a weak attempt at hauteur.

"H. B." Al looked to Marilyn, then at Clara, explaining "Heartbeat, for short." Turning to Marilyn again, he said, "This is where you come in. Tell big sister why you crashed her gate."

"I had to see you, Clara," said Marilyn, urgently, "because you are—hurting yourself. If you go on you'll hurt Mums and Dad and Bill. Mother knows, instinctively, that—things are not as they should be with you. Inside her, she's quaking. You must go home and reassure her. You know she loves you. You're her favorite child. Don't fail her."

* * *

Clara said, "You have a nerve, asking me to go all the way to Millville to tell Ma something I can put on a piece of paper and send to her. Why should Ma worry about me—unless you told her a pack of lies you got from Al Martino? Ma knew I was coming to New York to have a good time. She wanted me to come. She's glad I'm being made a fuss over. She's glad I'm having the time of my life. Wait till she hears about the marvelous show I'm going to be in—most marvelous show in New York. I'll show that hick town of ours who I am!"

Marilyn realized she could gain nothing by pursuing the present line of argument. She'd try another, though she felt it was weaker than the first.

"You haven't forgotten, have you," she said, "that your agreement with the Metropole Company is that they bring you to New York and return you to your home? They are very much concerned about your conduct. Our decision not to return to Millville. They feel you are their responsibility morally, and perhaps legally, too. They've been so generous you must consider their wishes in the matter. Keep your agreement with them, Clara. If you want to return to New York later, that will be your own concern. They will be entirely out of it. Don't you think that is only fair?"

"Fair!" Clara's scorn was not pretty to see. "You make me laugh. They have been fair with me? They've made plenty of money out of me, you can bet—got their name in the papers a million times on account of me. What do they do? They turn me down flat when I ask them to give me the money instead of a ticket home. What business is it of theirs how I spend the money? I won it, didn't I? It's my money. If I want to throw it in the street, it's my loss, not theirs.

Al barked, "Skip Herman. You're not getting the money, Blondie, so better think up some other way to finance your project. Herman says—"

"That's all taken care of," Clara replied smugly.

"Herman, again."

"If my friends want to lend me money, what's to stop them? They believe in me. They know I'll be a sensation, they know—"

"You'll be a public scandal if you don't lay off that giggle water."

"You stop insulting me, Mister Martino. It's time you got out of here, anyhow. Both of you. I have an appointment."

Marilyn said, aghast, "Clara! You haven't asked about Mums or Dad or Bill? Don't you want to know how they are, what messages they sent?"

"I prefer to get my news from them direct. I must get ready to go out now. I'll thank both of you not to bother me again. I'm busy. Good-bye."

* * *

"Nice people, your sister," Al said as he and Marilyn walked along the corridor to the elevator. "Big-hearted. Fond of her folks."

"Clara's lost her head completely," said Marilyn.

"Come, come now, Duchess, the gal never had a head to lose. She's had a taste of high life and she's gone wolf. Low-lives always do. We didn't get very far with the 'Yellow Plan,' did we? Just about where we started."

"Far enough to know something must be done about Clara. She can't go on as she is. I've got to stop her, for mother's sake, and Dad's."

Officials Probe Mystery on Coast-to-Coast Airliner

MAIL BOX KEY SWALLOWED BY GIRL EMPLOYE

Unconscious Stewardess Has Scratched Face and Torn Stockings.

(By International News Service)

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Mystery today surrounded the circumstances under which Miss Rosemary Griffith, 24, stewardess on the American Airlines' flagship, Tennessee, was found unconscious in the plane last night half an hour before it landed in Nashville on a flight from Washington, D. C.

The girl was in St. Thomas hospital, where it was stated an X-ray of her stomach revealed that she had swallowed the key to the airliner's mail compartment.

Pending questioning of the stewardess, authorities appeared uncertain what had occurred. She was found unconscious in the rear of the ship, near the mail compartment, at about 8:30 p. m. The transport landed at Nashville at 9:05 p. m. Miss Griffith's face was scratched, and her stockings were torn. Authorities said she was known to have been ill, and the investigation centered around whether she had fallen or had been injured in some other manner.

Although no official would be quoted directly on the possibility, it was indicated the investigators were trying to learn whether Miss Griffith swallowed the mail compartment key in an effort to protect the mails.

A report that Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were interested in the case was neither confirmed nor denied, but local authorities admitted their inquiry was not overlooking the possibility of sabotage. A preliminary study of the plane indicated the mail compartment had not been tampered with.

Fourteen passengers, three women and 11 men, were aboard the flagship when it landed. All were questioned closely by postal authorities, but after about three hours were permitted to continue their flight westward aboard another plane.

The Tennessee was held for careful inspection. It was being canvassed for fingerprints and was given a thorough search.

Absence of the stewardess during last night's flight was discovered when passengers complained of the heat. A co-pilot went through the ship to adjust the thermostat, and it was then Miss Griffith's unconscious form was found. She was lying near the open door of the mail compartment.

All investigators refused to discuss the case in detail until Miss Griffith had recovered sufficiently to explain what happened.

Calls American Youth Congress Communist Trap

COLUMBUS — (NS) — The American Youth Congress was branded today as a "Communist trap" by William B. Ball, of Cleveland, president of the Young Americanist League.

Speaking at a rally of the Columbus council of civic, fraternal and patriotic organizations, Ball charged the congress with "war-mongering," and said it should be classed "with other fifth column movements; namely, the Nazis and Fascists."

The young men of America will welcome military training, Ball asserted, but at the same time will fight the efforts of "such war-mongers who want to get us into another foreign war."

WAIT ORDERS

400 Ohio Guardsmen To Become Commissioned Officers.

COLUMBUS —(NS)— Four hundred enlisted men of the Ohio national guard will become commissioned officers if President Roosevelt orders the guard to active duty under legislation now pending before congress, Adj. Gen. Gilson D. Light announced today. The commissions already have been awarded, General Light said, but do not become effective unless the guard is ordered to duty by the president.

CONGRESSMAN DIES

WASHINGTON — (NS) — Rep. Willis Benjamin Gibbs, 51, Democrat, of Jesup, Ga., died early today at Naval hospital after suffering a stroke earlier in the evening at his Washington apartment. Serving his first term, Gibbs attended yesterday's session of the house and appeared to be in good health.

RITES FRIDAY

Funeral Set for Albert Bell, Loudonville Train Victim.

LOUDONVILLE—Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Loudonville Methodist church for Albert Bell, 47, World war veteran, who died at Ashland Samaritan hospital yesterday of injuries sustained when he was run over by a freight car on a siding here.

Rev. F. A. Hinman, pastor of the Methodist church, will officiate and burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery near Perrysville.

Bell's back was broken when he was dragged by the freight cars. It was believed he had crawled under the cars to seek shelter from the rain, and fell asleep, failing to awaken when the engine was attached to the cars.

Mr. Bell was born March 29, 1895 at Greer, and Nov. 18, 1920, was married to Miss Ruth Hunter, who survives. Besides his widow he is survived by two daughters, Lucile and Opal; a son, Jack; a sister, Mrs. Mae Botomley, and four brothers, Clarence and Osburn of Mansfield, Walter of Loudonville, and Herman of Green Springs.

HOUSE APPROVES REFUGEE SHIPS

Senate Gets Bill to Send American Vessels Into Combat Zones.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The senate today received legislation, overwhelmingly approved by the house, permitting American ships to enter European combat zones to evacuate refugee children.

The measure's effectiveness, even if finally enacted into law, depends on Great Britain, Germany and Italy, however. No ship would be allowed to depart without having safe conduct assurances from belligerent powers.

The senate foreign relations committee was expected to consider the matter at its regular meeting next Wednesday.

As approved by the house, the bill would amend the neutrality act to permit American vessels to enter otherwise forbidden combat areas to remove refugee children of any nationality under 16 years old. Ships would proceed without convoy and would be plainly identified day and night by large American flags.

While the measure is universal in its coverage, its effect would be to spur evacuation of children from the British Isles where German bombing warfare threatens momentarily.

Amendments to the bill would require that "necessary adult personnel" accompanying the child refugees must be American citizens and that Americans who accept custody of the children be personally liable for their support.

AUTO UPSETS

East Mansfield Driver Escapes Injuries In Crash Up.

Harvey Kilgore, 18, of East Mansfield, escaped serious injuries at 1 a. m. today when the automobile he was driving struck a culvert and overturned six miles west of Mansfield on route 30-S.

Kilgore was taken to General hospital where he was treated for lacerations about the face and legs. Kilgore told highway patrolmen he did not know what caused the car to run off the road.

SHORTAGE OF WPA LABOR PERILS PROGRESS OF COUNTY PROJECTS

Shortage of WPA labor will retard Richland county's 1940 bridge schedule and road program, with a possibility that some of the work may not be completed this year, County Engineer H. C. Sword said today.

He said that he was working now with 122 men for both bridge and road work, which is a little more than half of his regular WPA assignments. The 1940 schedule included 17 bridges, of which seven have been completed, leaving 10 bridges to be built in less than four months.

A stretch of road construction in Washington township, known as the Touby road, was to have been started yesterday, Sword said, but there were no men for the work and it is uncertain when it can get under way. The single bridge crew has been split into two groups and these are working on bridges near Windsor and Shiloh.

The shortage in WPA labor available for county work is explained by Carl W. Atkins, WPA superintendent of county road and bridge work, by the fact that 35 men were transferred from county work to the West Fourth street paving project, and that a number of men have found jobs in private industry. He said that of six men called yesterday for WPA placements, only two arrived on the job.

ILLNESS FATAL

Paul F. Mertz, 52, Gas Company Employe, Succumbs.

Paul Frank Mertz, 52, died last night at his home, 49 Raleigh avenue, following a lingering illness. Born in Erie, Pa., he came to Mansfield 13 years ago and since that time had been an employe of the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

Surviving are his wife, Lena; one son, Leo, Mansfield; two daughters, Mrs. Dana Moxley, Mansfield, and June, at home; a brother, Joseph, Buffalo, N. Y.; and two sisters, Mrs. Peter Yochin and Mrs. W. Hayes, both of Erie, Pa.

The body is at the Geiger funeral home where friends may call until time of services at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in St. Peter's Catholic church, Msgr. R. C. Goebel officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield Catholic cemetery.

GOVERNOR'S WIFE DIES

CHARLOTTE, Mich. — (U.P.) — Mrs. Zora D. Dickinson, 75, wife of Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, died today after an illness of several weeks.

INFANT DIES

Funeral for Critchfield Baby Held at Perrysville.

Mary Alice Critchfield, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reece Critchfield, died Wednesday night at the parents' home, 7 France street, several hours after birth.

Funeral services and burial were to be conducted at 4 p. m. today in the Greenlawn cemetery, Perrysville.

Surviving, besides the parents, are four grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Critchfield and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Schrack, all of Mansfield.

WORK EXPECTED TO PROGRESS AT SWIFTER PACE

Workmen Hurry to Replace Broken Storm Sewer at Walnut Intersection.

The Mansfield Asphalt Paving company started pouring concrete this morning on the Fourth street improvement.

Delayed for the past two weeks due to grading the roadway, company workmen began placing concrete parking strips at North Diamond street.

Company officials said that the section between Diamond and Walnut streets would probably be completed within the next two days, and on completion of grading of the North Walnut street intersection by WPA they would move into the block between Walnut and Mulberry streets.

However, WPA workmen grading the North Walnut street intersection ran into a new snag today.

Cutting through heavy concrete in removing the old street car rails the workmen cut through a storm sewer under the old pavement.

As the result, the sewer which had been laid only a few inches below the surface will have to be lowered and new sections of pipe installed.

Supt. of Streets Charles Hebel, after surveying the damage this morning, said that the city would replace the 20-inch phale pipe with a new 24-inch concrete conduit.

WPA supervisors said the pipe would probably be lowered and the grading completed tonight. They expect to close off the North Mulberry street crossing tomorrow, advancing the grading westward.

It was explained that with the completion of the work between Diamond and Mulberry street, the project would move along at a faster pace.

TRUMAN LEADS

Appears to Have Won Senate Nomination Over Stark.

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— Missouri's closest election contest in almost 20 years appeared to have been decided today with Senator Harry S. Truman the winner over Gov. Lloyd C. Stark in the race for Democratic nomination to the U. S. senate in Tuesday's primary.

Although the official tabulation may be needed to certify the result, practically complete unofficial returns today indicated that Truman defeated Gov. Stark by about 7,000 votes. The count from 4,407 of the state's 4,446 precincts gave: Truman, 263,128; Stark, 256,335.

It was considered unlikely the few scattered precincts yet to be counted would affect the totals enough to change the standings.

PLAN FOR DAIRY DAY AT WOOSTER

County 4-H Club Members To Tour Experiment Station.

A group of Richland county 4-H club boys and dairymen are scheduled to go to Wooster Friday for the annual Ohio Dairy day program at the state agricultural experiment station.

The day's program, which will get under way at 10 a. m., will include tours through the state dairy barns and lectures by dairy authorities.

The delegation from Richland county will be headed by George B. Ganyard, county agent. The county is permitted to send six 4-H boys and a number of dairymen to the all-day meeting.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

You Can't Print That!

(This is a compendium of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If there is in them any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead—you've probably guessed right.)

Albert A. has for a long time been one of Broadway's most famous practical jokers—he has done more with a rib than anyone since Adam. Naturally, when his best pal was on the verge of marrying Honey H., a local torch-singer, Al could no more resist an opportunity to play a joke on him than he could pass a safe and sane April Fool's Day without sending friends fake telegrams.

Just because he wanted to see his pal "burn," Al took Honey out one night to make the rounds of the Broadway clubs.

The rib went off even better than the prankster planned. His friend Joe was tortured, of course, but even funnier than that—the canary couldn't resist Al.

She fell head over heels for the heel, and despite Joe's tears, she married the fellow who would set his grandmother on fire for a laugh.

For several years, the Main Stem looked upon them as a model couple. Only their closest friends (who knew how Al's thoughtless pranks and unkind practical jokes made her unhappy) weren't stunned when she left him to go to Reno for a divorce.

But now the hot foot is on the other foot. Not only is Al painfully grieved at losing his wife (he really became fond of her)—but he's forced to watch her forget him in the company of Joe, the fellow he stole her from!

But you can't print that. A practical joker has a tough time "taking it" when the joke's on him.

Moe X. and Georgie Q. are two of Tin Pan Alley's wealthiest and most important publishers. Although they belong to the same set and share many mutual pals, they have for 18 years participated in a feud that would make the Hatfields and McCoys look like buddies.

Everyone on Broadway is familiar with the animosity between these two well-known characters. Headwaiters shiver when they they both happen in the same club, and smart night club hosts seat Moe and Georgie as far apart as possible. Both these fellows are intelligent and nice, but they simply abhor each other—and they really carry their dislike to a point where it seems childish.

Now, last week's Variety was dedicated to ASCAP, and every important songwriter, music publisher, bandleader and motion picture firm was represented with an advertisement. The entire theme of the edition was Good Will.

It was the most voluminous copy of Variety ever published, and there were many, many pages to pick from—but somehow or other, Moe and Georgie found, when they picked up the edition, that their respective full page ads were placed lovingly side by side on one double page.

But you can print that. The boys in Lindy's are kidding them both into a state of hysterics, already.

Annabelle Z. is a beauty with hair like cornsilk, eyes like hyacinths, and a figure as close to Ann Sheridan's as a girl can come without faking. For six years or so she was terribly devoted to one of Hollywood's most exciting stars—a famous actor whose wife, separated from him for many years, refuses to give him a divorce.

Annabelle considered the plight of her Dream Prince, whom we shall call Charlie, a terrible personal tragedy. There seemed to be no hope for the future, and finally she astounded Hollywood by breaking up with him and coming east to live. The film star apparently took her departure lightly, because it was only a matter of days before his name was being linked with an actress even more famous than he.

Well, Annabelle has learned her lesson. Frequently and dramatically she told her intimates that never again would she say more than hello to a married man. Not after she'd wasted the best years of her life on Charlie.

If you happen to go to any of the more chic places these nights you're almost certain to bump into Annabelle, and she'll almost surely be holding hands and swooning over a distinguished playwright, actor and director. She loves him and he loves her and everything is simply wonderful for everybody — except for his wife, who can't understand why he's not as devoted as he used to be!

But you can't print that. It just happens Charlie is in town, and he'd be so puzzled at Annabelle's new interest—because she used to nag him so for being a married man!

Pete B. and Nancy C. have been in love since they were kids, which wasn't so long ago because he's only 24 and she's a very pretty 21. A little over a year ago, when she was just an ambitious girl from the south trying to conquer Broadway, you could have given any odds (and got no takers) that they would eventually wind up as Mr. and Mrs.

But a lot happened in a year. Now he's only a small-time press agent, and she has become the darling of the musical comedy stage, one of the most highly publicized girls to hit Bright Street since Rector's was a pub.

And the more Nancy's name and picture show in the papers, the more popular she becomes with the local glamor boys—and the faster Pete is fading into the list of the also-rans.

But what is really making him nervous, humiliated and terribly unhappy is the fact that his job—a job which supports his mother and two sisters—is that of working for Nancy's manager, as her press agent.

But you can't print that. Although his job depends on his getting Nancy's name in the papers, this is one clipping he'd gladly not paste in her scrapbook.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Blanche Yurka really means it. A lot of actresses, who say it, don't mean it.

They say "I don't mind how small a part is, so long as it has meat and character." What they mean is, usually, that they don't mind because they can't help it.

Blanche Yurka says something like that, and she means what she says. Miss Yurka, the stage star, is doing her fourth movie, "Escape." There are other names ahead of hers in the cast, other roles much longer. The same was true when Miss Yurka appeared as Madame Defarge in "A Tale of Two Cities." It was not true when she starred in "Queen of the Mob," for although she had no star billing it was a Yurka movie. It was true for her next, "City for Conquest," in which she played Ann Sheridan's mother. In "Escape" there are names like Norma Shearer, Robert Taylor, Alla Nazimova all ahead of Blanche Yurka's name.

You can believe Miss Yurka when she says she likes roles big and little because in her rich experience she has proved that it isn't the number of "sides" a part has that counts.

"It's better to have two scenes an audience remembers than to go drooling through a long part and have everybody else eating the shoulders off it," she says with a laugh. Miss Yurka is a tall, commanding presence, natural as a spanking wind from the sea, and as refreshing.

Ibsen's "The Wild Duck," one of her stage successes, contains the best proof of her contention. The role of Gina Ekdahl, rated in "sides," would seem to be about fifth in "importance." But Ibsen wrote the play for Miss Yurka played Gina! so that while other characters are acting their heads off your mind is on Gina.

Miss Yurka proved it again in her first movie, for Madame Defarge, with her cussed ways and her knitting, still stands out in memory. "Queen of the Mob," of course, was a starring role. She had none of the other players "eating off the shoulders" of the part. About "Escape," she remembers she was required to strike Nazimova, one of her own theater idols, and it was a case of striker suffering more than strikee.
